Council fiddles while city sinks

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

The Petition Drive Committee which sponsored the successful referendum to rescind the October 39 per cent water rate increase asked to meet with Romulus City Council members after they passed a 30 per cent increase last week.

Led by former mayor Terry Troutt, the group Monday night met with four members of City Council, Mayor James Stewart and approximately 40 others which attended the gathering.

Instead of becoming a confrontation between Stewart and Troutt, who are known to be bitter rivals, the meeting was more peaceful than expected — with each side coming up with basically the same statements they have made over the past six weeks.

Five members of the group, including Troutt, Jack Turnbull, attorney Dick Murray, associate of the late William Munger, former city attorney; Carol Bales and Robert Plank, sat at a table facing four members of the Council.

Their main request was for the City Council not to pass any water rate increase until an in-depth study can be made to justify it.

The four Council members present were Joan Lee, Beverly McAnally, William Oakley and Gerry Canejo. Absent were Jimmy Raspberry, Fred (Junior) Block and Robert Martin.

Although the meeting was expected to be a little volatile at times, the only spark came when Lee and Stewart exchanged barbs at the close of the meeting.

But there were a few surprises. Troutt admitted publicly that there definitely was a need for a water rate increase.

Joan Lee said this was her "farewell" speech.

And Mayor Stewart claimed he would "stake my administration" on the fact that a study will prove the need for an increase in water rates.

Troutt listed four or five things in his remarks. "We don't doubt a need for a water rate increase, but we feel monies are available. The present administration should borrow money from the general fund or reduce administrative charges to water department."

Troutt added: "I'm not a candidate for any office this year, so it's not a political thing."

He also said that "If we have to go back to the people, we'll go back," referring to another petition drive.

Plank supported the former mayor and promised, "We're not going to sit here and have 45 days run out on our referendum or have our court option run out." It seemed, to some observers to be a "veiled threat" of court action if the latest rate increase wasn't nullified.

Stewart responded by saying the city can't borrow from other funds because "taxpayers don't want their money to go for water bills." The mayor also said such a course would invite lawsuits by land owners.

Council member Lee asked how the water department could lose large sums every year and still have a balanced budget? The auditor, John Burr, answered: "I can't answer how deficits can vary year to year."

Then Lee charged that Stewart took the "Munger" water and sewer ordinance, had it rewritten and resubmitted to City Council.

Stewart denied the charge, claiming Munger spent one year and $6,000 of city money to write the ordinance which Council never passed.

Mrs. Lee interrupted the mayor, saying: "It's too bad that Mr. Munger is not here to defend himself — he was a better man than the one sitting next to me tonight." (referring to Stewart).

"I have never made a statement in 15 years of public service that I can't back up," said Stewart, as he watched Mrs. Lee disappear out the door.

A real Valentine sweetheart is 4-year-old Melissa Avery, who is in Romulus High School's vocational education child care program. The 37-pre-schoolers, guarded by teachers, high school student helpers and security guard, Arnold Ziegler, crossed Wayne Rd. and decorated McDonald's Restaurant Friday morning with large valentines they made themselves. Mrs. Phyllis Henry, a child care teacher in her second year, helped lead the pre-schoolers' parade. The youngsters were judged on their "works of art" and the top three will be honored. Top winner gets a free dinner for the whole family.

Romulus names PIO officer

Mayor James C. Stewart has announced that Jay Young, 30, has been named to the newly-created post of Public Information Officer for the City of Romulus.

In making the announcement, Stewart said that the need to effectively communicate the opportunities and programs offered by Romulus to its citizens has existed for some time.

"Only recently has the job been made available," Stewart said, "by a grant of funds from the federal government. Romulus taxpayers do not have to pay any money toward the administrative job."

Young, a 1964 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, received his Bachelor's Degree in History from Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., in 1968. He taught social studies at Stevenson Junior High School in Westland for four years, before travelling to Wash., D.C. to earn a Master's Degree in Communication from American University in 1974.

Recently Young and his wife, Linnea, returned from a two-year teaching assignment at a large American high school in Sao Paulo, Brazil, where he taught journalism.

Young said he looked forward to working closely with Mayor Stewart, Community Development Director Steve Bonczek, the City Council and others in his new capacity.

"I welcome suggestions and feedback from the public in order to make communication truly a two-way process," Young said. "Romulus has much to offer and we want to work with everyone we can to project that potential and positive image."

Bonczek, who helped screen applicants for the Public Information Officer's position, said Young would work with Mayor Stewart, serving as an administrative assistant as well as helping community representatives in the development, promotion, coordination and implementation of programs.

"He will also supervise and participate in the development of specific information programs in such areas as community services, energy resource management, economic development and consumer information," Bonczek said.

Michael's fight with cancer is over

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

The fight for life has ended for 10-year-old Michael Wirts, 9793 Van Buren Rd., Belleville, but the financial struggle continues.

A victim of cancer of the prostate gland, the spunky youngster lapsed into a coma Monday morning and was rushed to Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti. He died at 1:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Survivors include his mother and father, Kathy and Gary, and 8-year-old sister, Kathy. Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. Friday by the Rev. Joy Arthur at Roberts Funeral Home, 209 Main St., Belleville, with interment at Hillside Cemetery.

Young Michael was featured in a recent story in Associated Newspapers' five weeklies — Belleville Enterprise, Romulus Roman and the Wayne, Westland and Canton Eagles — and the response was tremendous.

Mrs. Ruth Hughes, of Wayne American Legion Post Women's Auxiliary Unit 111, 4422 South Wayne Rd., Wayne, helped set up a drive for cards and financial support.

"The response has truly been overwhelming," said Mrs. Hughes, "not only from the local area but from around the nation and even as far away as Australia."

"A man in Australia was mailed a newspaper with the story in it about Michael and he sent a mailgram to the Wirts' home. Because of your newspapers' story and the help of other newspapers, Michael was receiving between 60 to 80 cards and letters a day."

But Mrs. Hughes still has a great concern.

"Although the financial response has been real good, there was a tremendous expense in caring for Michael and there's still $700 in hospital bills," she said.

"I couldn't believe it, but a collection agency was hounding Mrs. Hughes for payment of the $700 even while young Michael was near death. They even threatened to take the parents to court if the bill wasn't paid immediately."

Some individuals sent checks for as much as $100, Mrs. Hughes pointed out.

"Mr. Wirts and I want to express our deep gratitude and heartfelt thanks to everyone who has helped us at this very trying time in our lives," said Mrs. Wirts. "We want everybody to know that we appreciate very much what they have done for Michael and for us."

Mrs. Hughes intends to finish the job she has started.

"We want to see this $700 paid as soon as possible and I personally invite everyone to send a donation to help this family in time of financial need. If we all do our part, we can see this financial need met and show there is still a mighty force for good in the world," Mrs. Hughes said.

Donations may be sent to "Michael Wirts Fund," and addressed to American Legion Post No. 111, 4422 South Wayne Rd., Wayne or to the Wirts' home, 9793

Van Buren Rd., Belleville. Further information can be obtained by calling Betty Chapman at 427-9002.

CBers organize to provide 'HELP'

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

There are plenty of people wanting to help you — including Tiger Shark, Sassy Lassie, Big Hook, Dragon Lady, Rattlesnake, Wheat Germ, Ricochet Rabbit, Blue Bear, Mickey Mouse and Teddy Bear.

These may sound like cartoon characters, or names from a comic strip, but their desire is to give stranded motorists some help. In fact, that is the name of a new local citizen's Band radio group — HELP — an acronym for Highway Emergency Life Patrol.

Based in Romulus and headed up by three residents of that city, HELP is anxious to assist motorists in need all over Western Wayne County. And Tiger Shark, Sassy Lassie and Big Hook stand ready to have interested CBers join them in helping others.

Those three — better known as Craig Woods and Wendy and Paul Edmondson — actually met over the CB airwaves and decided to do something constructive in the CB radio area.

"We were involved in a citizen's band radio group before, but it kind of fell through," Woods explained. "But I was connected with a similar group called Gas Buggy CB, made up of some Ford employees, and my desire grew to get something started in this area."

Craig, who is Chairman of HELP, related how the Edmondsons, now secretary and vice-chairman, first heard him on the CB.

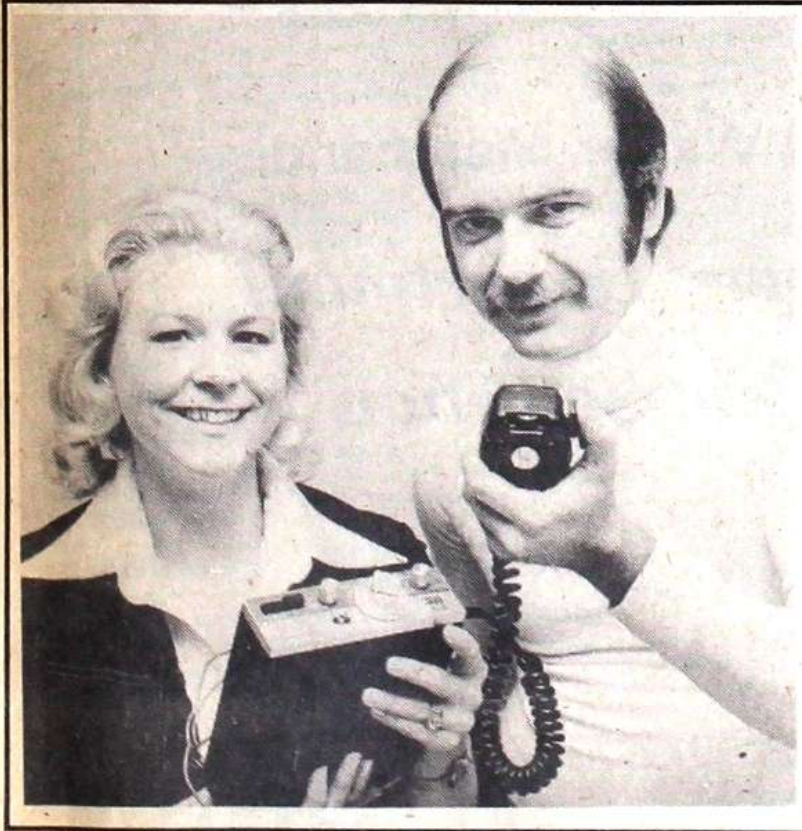

"We held conversations over a short period of time and decided to get together," Woods said.

Mrs. Edmondson said her husband was so impressed with Woods' radio voice and knowledge that he wanted to work with him in starting a group to assist needy people on the highway.

The group held its first meeting in November at Warren Valley Country Club in Dearborn Heights. Of the 30 who attended the initial meeting, 28 signed up as members.

"Before we started, we thought through what people needed and what we wanted the club to accomplish," Woods said. "We want to emphasize that our group is not a social club. In fact, there are two requirements for joining HELP — a self-commitment of wanting to help others and that you abide by all FCC regulations."

Looking back

The Belleville Bi-centennial Commission rounded up as many former city officials as they could and taped a 3-hour history of the community. The Belleville-Enterprise Reporter Jim Bradley had the honor of keeping the officials talking about "the good old days", but his job was an easy one as the former officials conversed freely about their early times. A transcript has been made of the 3-hour tape and, hopefully, residents will be able to buy a copy of it. The Enterprise also plans to run a series of articles on the musings of the city fathers — Orlo Roberts, Belleville's first mayor (from left); Jay Herkimer, mayor in the early 1950s; Reg Atyeo, a meter reader for 40 years in the community, and Darryl Raymond, who served as a Village of Belleville official back in 1921. — ANP photo.

Cawthorne proposal seeks better property tax break

House Republican Leader Dennis O. Cawthorne of Muskegon has said he will introduce legislation to give a better property tax credit break to low income senior citizens, the blind and disabled and veterans.

Cawthorne's legislation would increase so-called "circuit breaker" property tax relief by increasing household income and state equalized valuation allowance tables by $1,000 each.

Under current law, senior citizens with a household income of less than $6,000 are entitled to property tax credits based on the amount their property taxes exceed a percentage of their income. Those with incomes of $5,000 to $6,000 receive the excess of 3 percent of their income; those with incomes of $4,000 to $5,000 receive the excess of 2 percent of their income, and so forth, until those with incomes of less than $3,000 receive a refund of 100 percent of their property taxes.

The blind, eligible servicemen, veterans and widows now receive property tax credits based on the percentage the state equalized value allowance is to the state equalized value of the homestead. The present state equalized value allowance in most cases is $3,500, but may be as high as $4,500 for those with severe service-connected disabilities.

Cawthorne's bill would increase the allowable household income figures to give the same break, for example, on a $5,000 income as has formerly been extended a person on a $4,000 income.

Cawthorne said: "Inflation has eaten away the benefits the legislature intended to give senior citizens and others back in 1973. The increased relief I am proposing makes up for this erosion and assures senior citizens, veterans and disabled and blind persons that their relief will be at a real level generally equivalent to 1973." Cawthorne estimates the increased property tax relief would cost the state's General Fund less than $10 million.

"I consider this a priority issue and I do not think sound fiscal policy should include the erosion of property tax credits available to those people with the lowest incomes in our state," Cawthorne added.

Faust, Crim press for school aid panel

The Speaker of the State House of Representatives and the Senate Majority Leader have called for the creation of a special bi-partisan legislative committee to examine all potential methods by which Michigan might finance its public schools and make long-range recommendations to the State Legislature.

"Michigan never really has had a clear policy statement in this field, much less a long-range plan," State Sen. William Faust pointed out.

"The Thomas Committee, on which Speaker (Bobby) Crim himself served in a staff capacity, did a detailed study a decade ago and outlined some promising alternatives, but its recommendations were largely ignored in subsequent years," he said. "Gov. Milliken recommended one approach in 1969 that failed to win legislative support, then turned to a totally different approach in 1972 only to have it rejected by the voters — then finally endorsed a Senate Education Committee proposal for still another approach in 1973."

"As one of the members of that committee and sponsors of that proposal, I would be the first to cite the gains that have been made, particularly for school districts with modest tax bases that have been forced to levy high millages to maintain good educational programs."

"But I think there is state-wide concern today, among educators and taxpayers alike, over both the adequacy and equity of the present system. A thorough examination of all the alternatives is very much in order."

Speaker of the House Bobby Crim, who recently proposed for legislative consideration a new state aid plan designed to de-emphasize school property taxes and permit high-tax districts to reduce their levies with no loss of revenue, agreed that "no one's short-range proposal should be regarded as the final answer."

"I certainly cannot state at this time, as the Governor has done, that the present system is so satisfactory that all thought of Constitutional change should be abandoned," Crim said. "There are degrees of change the Legislature can implement. The alternative state aid formula that I and other concerned legislators have proposed would begin remedying, over the next two years, some of the inequities we have documented and called to public attention.

"That proposed formula probably represent about the maximum degree of change that is possible through mere statutory revision of the state aid act."

"There are, however, much greater degrees of change, and a much wider range of alternatives, that require Constitutional revision and must be approved by the people at a general election."

"Such change, in Michigan, could not be authorized prior to November of 1978 and could not be implemented prior to the subsequent 1979-80 school year.

"This special committee will examine all alternatives, all realistic combinations of taxation and allocation plans, and report to the legislature at the beginning of the 1978 session."

"If, on the basis of recommendations received, the Legislature decides that a plan requiring Constitutional amendment should be offered to the voters, there will be ample time to work out a November ballot proposal."

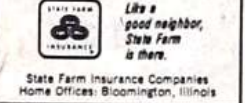

The special committee would consist of five members of the House and five members of the Senate.

Church presents housing proposal

Complex benefits seniors

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

A church group will appear before the Romulus Planning Commission for the second time tomorrow night to present plans to build a 2-stage, $2½ million senior citizens apartment complex on Ecorse Road at Henry Ruff.

Officials for the Dearborn-based Warrendale Community Church, located at 19700 Ford Road near Evergreen, said they want to carry out the Christian commission to provide for the physical needs of people, as well as their spiritual needs.

To be built on 20 acres of ground, the apartment complex will be for anyone 55 years and older and have a Life Care Center in the middle of the proposed project.

"We will pay fully for this project, and it will be open to anyone 55 years or older, regardless of race, creed or color," said The Rev. Robert Armstrong, pastor of the Warrendale Church.

"There will be no government subsidy of financing, yet we will offer senior adults a pleasant, commodious place to live at a low rental fee," he continued. "We feel it's just as much a part of the teachings to Jesus Christ for a church to care for the physical needs of the body as it is to preach salvation of the soul."

Sidney Upton, a deacon of the church and co-ordinator of the senior adult complex, explained that the apartments would provide much-needed revenue to the City of Romulus in addition to helping its senior citizens.

"We estimate that we will have to pay $192,000 in water and sewer tap fees before we can even break ground," he said. "Then we will be paying approximately $55,000 in real estate taxes each year. It will be beneficial to the entire population of Romulus."

Upton, who is a successful businessman himself, pointed out the value to the business community.

"When these senior adults move in, they will be patronizing local stores and other business establishments, thus helping the entire community to prosper," he said.

Some residents in the area of the proposed site had some reservations about the apartment complex until it was explained that older people would live in the units, and there would be very few, if any, small children.

Many safety features have been planned for the project by the Christopher Wzacy & Associates, according to Upton.

Among the safety features for the seniors in the 120 single-bedroom and 120 double-bedroom units will be a security guard for their protection. In addition, each apartment will have two emergency buttons — in the bathroom and living room — that will give instant communication with the manager's apartment 24 hours a day.

"Most accidents seem to happen in the bathroom with older people, and the architects have built in these safety features so a person can ring for help in case of emergency," Upton said.

Two other safety devices each unit will have are a smoke detector and a burglar alarm system, installed around each door and window.

"Many churches around the country are using their own initiative to build apartments like these, and it not only saves the government, it provides tax-base and offers low-rent beautiful housing for our growing number of senior adults," The Rev. Armstrong added.

'...they will be patronizing local stores and other business establishments...'

According to recent figures, there are 1,100 registered senior citizens (over age 55) in Romulus and a total of 2,600. Comprising the largest single age group in the United States, the U. S. Census Bureau estimates there are some 23 million senior citizens in the country.

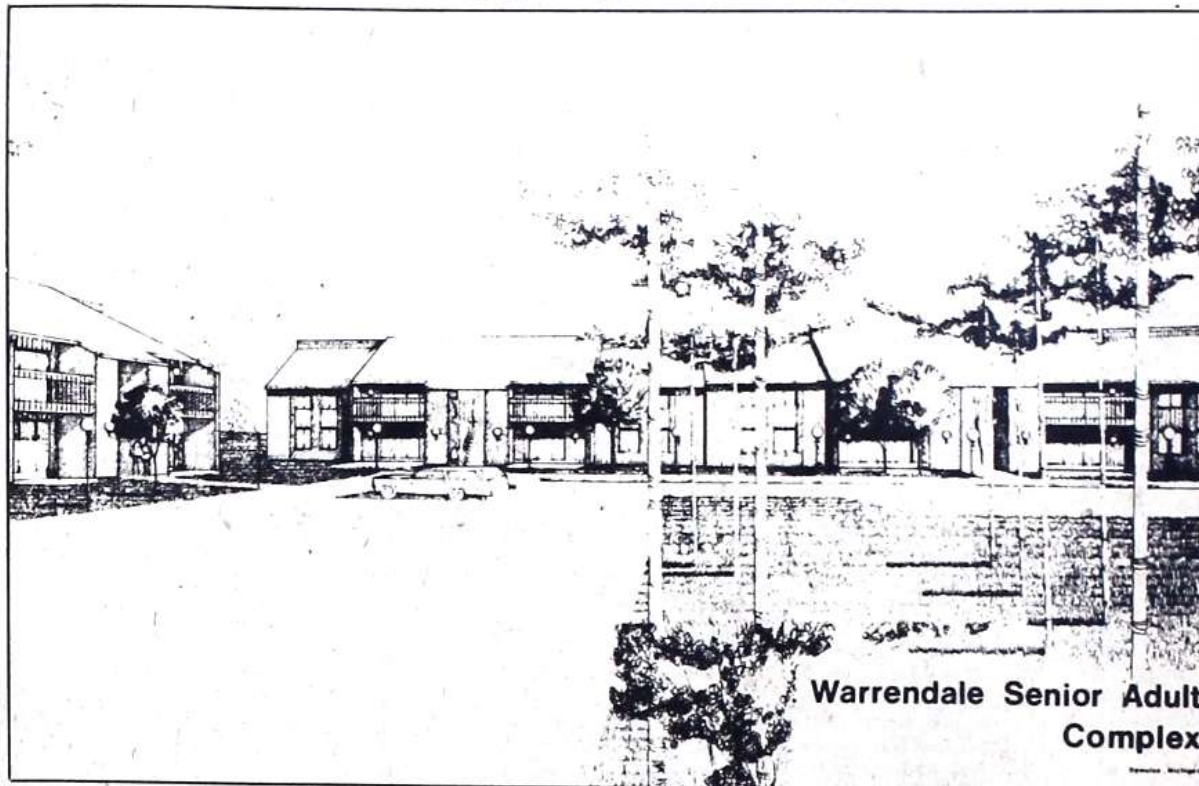

"There is a growing need for housing for senior adults and we want to help provide it," said The Rev. Armstrong. "Actually, it is a big responsibility for us to undertake a $2½ million apartment complex, but we feel a responsibility and privilege to those who have faithfully raised their children and want to enjoy a nice place to live out their lives at a reasonable rent."

The Warrendale Senior Adult Complex will be landscaped and have a Life Care Center, including a medical clinic, in the middle of the apartment project, easily accessible to all residents.

Plans call for 496 parking spaces in the 240-unit apartment project, with two for each unit and 16 for the Life Care Center.

"We're providing the Life Care Center, with its medical clinic, in place of the usual apartment clubhouse, because we think it will be more practical and useful," said The Rev. Armstrong.

The meeting with the Planning Commission will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at City Hall and is open to the public.

Seniors gain budget assist

If you're over 60 and on a fixed income, making ends meet can be difficult at best and sometimes downright impossible.

But don't despair, help is on the way. A group formed in 1975 called the Senior Citizens Program Coordinating Council, comprised of area senior citizens' service providers, including the Romulus Help Center, is dedicated to alleviating some of those problems. Although started in Romulus, the group hopes to also help senior citizens in Belleville, Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron townships.

Some of the ways the council seeks to do this is by serving as an information clearing house for pertinent legislation; coordinating senior citizen programs and events, and by acting as an advisory planning agency for senior citizen services in this area.

Recently, the council initiated a new program, called the Senior Citizen Discount Program.

The purpose is to provide anyone over 60 with discounts on goods and services from businesses in the Romulus area.

The discounts could mean a 10 to 15 percent savings on groceries, clothing, prescription drugs, haircuts or meals at local restaurants.

To date, hundreds of letters have been mailed to area businesses seeking their cooperation in the program. Later, a catalogue of participating merchants will be compiled and ready for distribution by this summer.

A similar program already exists in neighboring Washtenaw County and has been judged highly successful on two counts — seniors receive greatly needed discounts and merchants receive free publicity and increased business.

In Washtenaw, all participating merchants display special decals, and senior citizens are issued special identification cards for the program.

Beth Spencer, council secretary, estimates the Senior Citizen Discount Program could affect between 4,500 and 5,000 people in the Romulus, Huron, Sumpter, Van Buren and Belleville areas.

For those who wish to donate to the project, volunteer their help or seek further information, contact Louise Comey, president of the Senior Citizens Program Coordinating Council at 941-9590.

Reserves rescue 2 citizens

An elderly Romulus couple was rescued in Canton Township by police reserves during the blizzard of Jan. 28, not only sparing them from possible death, but earning public honors for the officers' dedicated action.

Praised for their swift action in saving the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Fields of 14601 Wahrman, Romulus, were Canton officer John MacDiarmid and police dispatcher Karl Heinzman.

Summoned to Beck and Geddes Road at about 4:30 p.m., the two officers found four, or five, cars half-buried by snow, piled high by the strong winds. Although the Fields' were warm and comfortable in their car, they were snowed in and had to be helped to safety.

Unknown to the officers, Fields has emphysema and while walking the couple to safety, he suffered a severe attack. Heinzman carried him more than 100 yards through deep snow drifts to a waiting rescue unit.

They transported Fields to Wayne's Annapolis Hospital for treatment.

"These are very fine men, and we're proud of them and their dedicated action," Canton Police Commander Carl Silvers said.

'Booster shot'

Individuals and companies have sprung to the assistance of the financially-strapped Romulus Senior High School winter sports program. Latest in the line of donations came Friday from Detroit Diesel Allison and Kelsey-Hayes, two Romulus-based industries. Allison contributed a $1,000 check and Kelsey-Hayes contributed $850. William Cramer (from left), director of salary personnel administration, presented

Sports gets boost; Firms donate $1,850

Two Romulus-based industries have joined hands to contribute $1,850 to the financially strapped Romulus High School interscholastic winter sports program.

The contributions were made by the Detroit Diesel Allison Division of General Motors Corp. and Kelsey-Hayes Co.

The Detroit Diesel Allison donation was $1,000, while Kelsey-Hayes donated $850.

The interscholastic winter sports program, which includes wrestling and basketball, was cut from the school budget following the recent defeat of a school millage proposal.

Sports backers in the community have since been attempting to restore funds for the program through voluntary contributions. The firms' gift is the latest in a series of contributions made by Romulus-area groups.

Checks from the two companies were presented Friday at Romulus Senior High School to principal Joel Carr and head basketball coach Jesse Meriweather at the high school. Robert F. Brueck, industry-government relations administrator, made the presentation for Detroit Diesel Allison. William J. Cramer, director of salary personnel administration, made the donation for Kelsey-Hayes.

Detroit Diesel Allison, headquartered in Detroit, operates two plants in the northwest section of Romulus. Kelsey-Hayes operates a plant and maintains its general offices on Huron River Drive in Romulus.

CBers organize aid group

'Sassy Lassie, Shark' say: HELP is here

Valley Country Club has been very helpful, donating a meeting room each month and even advertising it on their lobby billboard.

The purpose of the organization is to promote better understanding among CBers.

An annual fee of $2 per station is required when submitting application for membership by writing HELP, P.O. Box 452, Romulus 48174.

With citizen band radios multiplying on the roads and in homes today, Woods feels a definite need to work together with the growing lists of CBers.

"The benefits that can be derived from a nationwide, as well as area-wide, network of organized CBers is infinite and is easily obtainable by just wanting to help," he noted.

The three prime target areas of HELP — which grew by word of mouth and over the radio — is courtesy, education and avoiding misuse of the communications instrument.

"Courtesy is the key word in all use of CB radio," Woods pointed out. He has been using the instrument for almost two years now. "Many times people will 'Step on each other' (interrupting each other on the airwaves) as well as ignoring federal communications regulations and even using profanity on the radio."

"This is a flagrant misuse of the privilege we have, and we are trying to educate everyone we can to the correct use of CB radio."

Misuse of the airwaves is one of the most irritating things to Woods.

"Some people use profanity, newcomers are not familiar with CB slang, others always are cutting in and 'stepping on one another,' while 'gabbers' tie up the channel too

Although these are pressing problems to be solved, Woods especially wanted to teach people how to respond when they hear the piercing numbers — "10-33" — the code for an emergency situation.

"When CBers hear '10-33' come over the airwaves, they have a tendency to either ignore the distress signal or to have too many respond, thus 'jamming' the frequency," Woods said. "As a result, the needy person often doesn't receive help."

Woods outlined a simple 3-step plan to assist those in difficulty.

"First, the one responding to the distress signal should identify his station (call letters)," he explained.

"Second, he should ask the person in trouble to come back with their FCC call letters and say he'll try to help. "Third, and very important, try to find out what the exact need is, what injuries have been inflicted and the vehicle's exact location."

According to Woods, CBers should be a means of help, but leave the actual ministering of aid to those qualified to give it.

Woods reiterated that the group wants as many interested people to join his group as possible. "But, we want only those who really are concerned in helping others in need," he emphasized.

The dedicated Romulus resident would like to see a good response from CB buffs in Wayne, Westland, Canton Township, Romulus, Van Buren Township, Belleville, Sumpter Township and other areas.

While some CB groups assign times or channels to its members, Woods explained that HELP doesn't do that.

"Our members can monitor any channel any time," he said.

"The only requirement in joining our group is that the members help anyone in need the best way they can — and that they identify themselves as a mobile or base unit," he continued.

Woods said his group is in the process of printing membership cards, becoming incorporated and approving group bylaws.

Woods estimated that some 70 percent are base (or stationary) radios, while the rest are located in moving vehicles.

When CBers see or hear a report of someone in trouble, they should report it and then leave it for people who are properly trained for the job — such as police, firemen, etc. Woods said.

"One thing that's fantastic about CB radio," according to Woods, "is that CB people come from all walks of life, big and small, rich and poor."

And Edmundson has a motto: "CBs are wife insurance." He explained by saying: "If your wife is out at night, she can call home for help without even leaving her car."

A multitude of citizen band radio sets were sold during Christmas and the "rookies" are causing an awful lot of difficulty, Woods said.

"The biggest problem is that most of the newcomers begin using their radio without reading their CB booklet or properly understanding FCC regulations."

Despite the many drawbacks, Woods sees a great future for an area-wide network of CB owners — and cites two recent examples where quick radio action saved lives.

"Yes, there's a great future to citizen band radio and for our HELP group as we endeavor to assist all those in need," Woods said.

And that's a 10-4, good buddy.

Barr asks for task force

The chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has asked a blue-ribbon task force to propose who should run Wayne County General Hospital and what immediate steps can be taken to improve the operation, service and financial difficulties of the public health facility, which serves Western Wayne County.

John Barr made his request at the first meeting of the newly appointed Task Force on the medical facility, located in Westland, held in Detroit late last week.

The task force, which represents a wide cross section of the community, was appointed by Barr to consider a recent report by the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council which calls for sweeping changes at the hospital.

Barr also told the task force he will ask the Board of Institutions, the present governing body of the hospital, to establish a cost-containment committee to work with the new task force to "improve management methods and recommend steps to reduce costs."

The original hospital council study was requested by the Board of Commissioners in an effort to make the hospital financially sound.

Barr asked the committee to give early consideration to two basic priority items.

"First, I ask that you take a look at the composition and authority of the Board of Institutions," Barr said. "Who should be on this board and how should it relate to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and the Wayne County Board of Auditors?"

"Next, we'd like an early opinion on a proposed Medical Service Plan (MSP) that should broaden participation by physicians in the area and increase the number of inpatients served."

Barr said the hospital council report indicated that the $330 average per diem patient costs along with a decline in inpatient use at the general hospital were major factors in the financial difficulties facing the facility.

"According to our county fiscal advisor, it behooves us to increase bed capacity at the hospital, then per patient costs would decrease," Barr explained. "The hospital budget for this year is $52 million, with the county underwriting about $12 million after reimbursements."

"Wayne County General, in my opinion, has no equal in the area of emergency care. We also know that the utilization of outpatient care has been going up. The question is should we be expanding those services we can do best, and eliminate those that are better handled at other facilities?"

"We know that there have been several weighty studies on the hospital and that quite often the recommendations have been controversial. But the climate is right and I am confident that important changes will be made," he added.

Barr said the proposed Medical Services Plan was "nearly ready for presentation to the Board of Commissioners and that all indications pointed to increased patient services and greater cost savings for the hospital."

The Medical Services Plan would allow the county to contract with a private group of doctors for services needed.

In addition to the above charges, the task force also will study the hospital council recommendations that the hospital:

—Become the trauma (major injury) center for Western Wayne County;

—Permit salaried staff physicians from the University of Michigan Medical School to see private patients and retain a portion of the resultant fees;

—Add services in head and neck cancer, gastro-intestinal intensive care, pulmonary intensive care, physical medicine and substance abuse and poison control;

—Initiate discussions with union leaders, department heads and employees toward the resolution of the hospital's problems.

In addition to John Barr, others serving on the task force committee are Mrs. Katherine Cushman, citizen representative from Dearborn; Lawrence P. Doss, president of New Detroit Inc.; Jay Endsley, director of the Michigan State Office of Health and Medical Affairs in Lansing; and Symond Gottlieb, executive director of the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council.

Also, Dr. Ramon Joseph of the Department of Internal Medicine of Wayne County General Hospital; Dorothy Knight, president of the seventh Precinct Community Council in Detroit; Chester Kus, supervisor in Atomic Research for Detroit Edison Co.; Paul Massaron, UAW International representative Region 1-B; Patrick O'Neil, councilman for the City of Inkster. Also, Joan Pettipren of Westland, chairman of the Wayne County Civil Service Commission; Leonard Proctor, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Auditors; Marc Stepp, vice-president of the International Union - UAW; Thomas Turner, president of the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO and Wayne County Commissioners Royce Smith of Belleville and Samuel Turner of Detroit.

Smith also is chairman of the Wayne County Labor Relations Board and Turner is chairman of the Wayne County Board of Institutions. Barr said he hoped to announce at least two more appointments soon which would come from industry and a major medical insurer.

Pettipren heads District Dem Party organization

Westlander Vicent Pettipren has been re-elected chairperson of the 15th District Democratic Party organization, following the recent district convention, held Jan. 29 in Taylor.

Dr. Pettipren, a former state representative and currently a member of the Wayne-Westland Board of Education, will have Helen B. Wainio as his vice-chairperson. A former Melvindale councilman and a district aide to Congressman William D. Ford of the 15th District, she was re-elected to the vice-chairperson's position.

John Reddy of Westland was re-elected as recording secretary and JoAnn Porter, also of Westland, was re-elected as corresponding secretary. Harry Koss of Garden City also got the nod for another term as treasurer.

Officers of the 15th District Democratic Party organization are chosen by a vote of the precinct delegates who were elected in by voters in the district in 1976.

The 15th Congressional District includes the cities of Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Taylor, Wayne, Westland, Flat Rock, Inkster, Garden City, Romulus and Belleville, as well as the townships of Canton, Van Buren, Huron, Brownstown and Sumpter and portions of Southgate, Livonia and Monroe County.

Also elected to offices within the District Democratic organization were:

—Canton Township Supervisor Harold Stein as trustee and Township Clerk Ann Bradley as State Central Committee alternate.

—Van Buren-Bellefonte resident Marguerite Greathouse as co-vice-chairperson and Barbara Rogell Miller and Wayne County Commissioner Royce E. Smith to the State Central Committee.

—Romulus resident Gene Wilson as co-vice-chairperson, Councilman Beverly McAnally as trustee and Ed Wade as sergeant-at-arms.

—Westlanders Fred Klus and Ben DeHart as co-vice-chairpersons, Dick McKnight as trustee and Wayne County Commissioner Tom Presnell as State Central Committee alternate.

—Wayne Councilman Kenneth McKee and Pat Talmadge as trustees.

Gas shortage or credibility gap

Twenty-two years ago the United States Supreme Court decided in the Phillips Petroleum case that the Federal Power Commission was required to regulate the wellhead price of natural gas sold in interstate commerce.

Natural gas producers claim that the inevitable result of that decision has been to hold down the price of gas, well below the level necessary to attract producers to discover and develop new gas supplies.

Producers further claim that our domestic gas production peaked in 1972 and we are now using more every year than is being added to our reserves. Their forecasts indicate that our current reserves are only good for possibly another eight-or-nine years, and the American homeowner will be installing a new coal burning furnace by about 1985.

On the other side of the coin.

Based in part on the continuing lack of credibility of the oil and gas producers, many experts have expressed the opinion that any campaign by producers to sell the American public on the story that shortages of energy really do exist, should be met with suspicion.

This same group of people have claimed that the oil and gas producers are at best just interested in increasing their Corporate profits at the expense of the public.

In support of their position they cite the astronomical new profits being reported by the gas producers, amid the continuing cry of poverty coming from their corporate headquarters.

The group that claims that no shortages exist, consists of members of the U.S. Senate, Congress, former oil company executives and government experts. They cite the new profit figures as indication that the claims of the gas producers (that there is not sufficient justification for the exploration for new sources), are unfounded.

With some gas producer profits up over 1000 percent it does indeed appear that those new profits, coming from today's regulated prices, should provide the necessary incentive for the exploration and development of new reserves.

Another argument presented by the no-shortage-group, is that the gas companies located through the United States have consistently resisted any and all plans for the marketing of gas saving devices for use by the consuming public, until recently.

Some of the devices claimed of being able to reduce natural gas consumption by as much as 36 percent when installed on heating plants, have in fact been outlawed with the active support and insistence of the gas company lobbyists.

The credibility gap widens. With the air filled with charges-and-counter charges it becomes very difficult to separate fact from fiction.

The gas producers speaking through their lobbying organization, The Natural Gas Supply Committee, have indicated that nothing short of complete deregulation of the wellhead price of natural gas will solve the current problem.

They claim that deregulation will allow the price of gas to rise to its "real worth."

That real worth of natural gas is estimated to be $2.50 per thousand cubic feet as compared to the regulated price of $1.42 per thousand.

This 76 percent increase in the wellhead price of gas, constituting new profit, when added to the already record high profits being reported by the gas producers, will push gas producers profits to new, absurd heights.

The time has come for the natural gas producers to tell us just how much profit they will have to earn before they feel properly motivated to continue the search for new reserves.

It is time for the producers to make an attempt to repair their poor image. They have resisted the use of gas saving devices, they have been unresponsive to real questions regarding their profits, and they have taken the position that Federal regulation of their well head prices is oppressive government control.

It might now be in order for the people of this country to make the gas producers aware of the fact that they have an obligation and responsibility to the American public, as well as their stockholders and executives.

Inequities result when courts make laws

By RAY CROMLEY
CROMLEY NEWS SERVICE

The gradual abdication by Congress of its lawmaking powers — the transferring of these powers to the courts — is leading us into a morass of inequities.

Federal judges with no experience in education have taken over school systems. Judges inexperienced in city government have taken over major functions in communities.

A ruling that Chinese-speaking youngsters receive special help in English ends up as a requirement that Spanish speaking youth be taught in Spanish.

A law requiring that employers not intentionally discriminate in job standards ends up as a requirement that no single woman or member of a minority be accidentally kept from a position, something impossible for an employer to prove.

Courts were not set up to make laws. Judges are concerned with individual cases. They often find it impossible, when considering the rights of an individual before them, to consider the rights of others not directly involved, but who, nevertheless, will be deeply affected by their rulings. An entire community, or men and women through the nation, may suffer wrongly as an indirect, unintentional result of a court decision.

That is, federal judges are in the main highly competent in dealing with technical provisions of law as they affect a man, woman, small group or company — and on constitutionality. They do not have the specialized training, background or access to technical information to adequately determine the effects of their rulings on society at large when they get into major economic, social and technological issues.

Equally disturbing in this new role is that federal judges are appointed, not elected. This a major advantage when judges serve in their traditional role; they are thereby freed of undesirable outside pressure. But laws should be made in a forum where all citizens can bring their views to bear, either through personal representation or the ballot box.

We have reached this sorry state because Senators and Representatives have not done their job. They've written laws loosely because they would not take the time to write them well. They've turned out laws filled with contradictions, this usually the result of a multitude of compromises which enable a host of Congressmen to have their say. Each can then tell constituents he has protected their views. To bring order out of this chaos, the courts must make rulings and interpretations which are, in fact, laws.

In controversial matters — welfare, integration, pollution, worker and product safety, fair employment — Congressmen have made certain the rules were vague, this to take the heat off themselves, throw the onus for enforcement on the bureaucracy and the courts. I remember well the smile on one official's face as he explained why he and his associates would receive little flack on integration; they'd arranged for courts to stand in the forefront of the battle.

We need to find some way to throw poorly written laws back at the Congress with two instructions; make your intentions clear; eliminate contradictions.

Health Beat

The Tubby Tummy Syndrome

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Associated Newspapers recently published a picture of the Mayor of Westland, his Administrative Assistant, and the Managing Editor of the newspapers.

The outline used with the picture, albeit done tongue in cheek, suggested that none of the gentlemen in the picture could lay claim to even a modicum of physical fitness.

Certainly it is not our purpose to pass judgement on these poor, unfortunate souls. So we applaud heartily their decision to enter into a contest to strip themselves of the superfluous avoirdupois they now support, and which keeps them from displaying the lithe, slim, Adonis-like proportions of this columnist. And it is what I choose to call the tubby tummy syndrome that we will address in today's column.

It's a curious social phenomenon, but while better than half the people on Earth busy themselves daily in a frantic attempt at getting enough food to eat, the rest of us find our biggest problem to be the decision as to which oily salad dressing, rich pastry, or thick gravy we ought to use.

Overweight, and we might even suggest the more sinister noun obesity, appears to be reaching epidemic proportions.

We discussed the tubby tummy syndrome with some area physicians, and we were cautioned to make this point clear: no one should embark on any weight reduction regime without first consulting with a physician.

While it may sound stuffy or pompous, the truth of the matter is that only a doctor is equipped to direct and counsel a dieter.

When asked why some people seem to be overweight, one physician said, "Stripped of the technical language, most people are overweight simply because they eat too much!"

And he did not make that statement smugly or with a superior air — indeed, he seemed to feel some anguish as he spoke.

He continued with an interesting concept. "The main function of a diet," he said, "is not to lose weight. Rather, the function of a diet is to educate, or re-educate, yourself to the facts of nutrition."

"As a pleasant consequence of careful eating, you will lose weight, you will look better, and you will feel better. Education can be an illuminating experience."

Once you have decided to follow your doctor's instructions, and go on a diet, there are some things you should consider which will make the experience not as distasteful as you might first think.

Initially, you should diet because you want to diet. Don't look at it as some manner of penance, punishment, or feel sorry for yourself.

You should diet as a rational human being, keeping in mind always that it took you considerable time to produce that tubby tummy, and you are not going to lose it overnight. After all, if you lost only one pound per week, you'd lose 52 pounds in a year.

That 52-pound expression may well border on hyperbole, but is something to keep in mind.

So often people suffering from the tubby tummy syndrome console themselves by saying, "I just don't understand it. I hardly eat anything, but I still gain weight."

The odds are that those people really don't know how much they do eat.

It can be an enlightening event to keep accurate (that means honest) track of just how many calories you consume in a week. Get a small pocket notebook and a calorie counter. Write down everything — that means everything — you eat for one week and then total that calorie count against the limits established by your doctor. The total might astound you.

Another caution was added. You do not go on a diet to lose a specific amount of weight and then go back to your old eating habits.

The successful diet — and this gets back to our earlier quote — educates you to the fact that you must constantly be on the alert for troublesome foods.

When you have reached the weight level suggested by your doctor, you will be able to eat a little more to find out just what your maintenance level in calories actually is. Call that a reward for your diligence, but approach it cautiously.

As one physician said, "I'd not like to say that people who control their weight will by that fact alone live longer than others. But I do have confidence in saying that the quality of life for the decent-weight person ought to be measurably better."

And me? Well, I'm prepared to join the Mayor and the Managing Editor. As this is read, I will have seen my doctor, and will be following to the letter the instructions he will have given me.

It's been said, that despite any facade to the contrary, inside every fat man is a thin man crying to be let out.

I hear him crying.

Greg Emery Remembered

By JIM BRADLEY
Eagle Staff Writer

When a close friend dies, it always brings back special memories.

IT SEEMS LIKE ONLY YESTERDAY that a group of 14-year-old boys from Garden City, Michigan travelled to Knoxville, Tenn.

They were playing for the world baseball championship and the date was August 13, 1972. Among the names on the roster of 15 players was Greg Emery, a gangling youngster who played first base.

Gathered at Bill Meyers minor league stadium were teams from New York, Texas, Georgia, Tennessee and Ohio, as well as from Garden City. All these teams had prevailed in playoffs to represent their states in the Sandy Koufax National Championship series hosted by Knoxville.

It was at Knoxville that perhaps Greg Emery took his first positive steps toward stardom on the diamond, as well as on the gridiron and basketball court. Stroking the ball sharply in a substitute role, the baby-faced Emery battled his way into the starting line-up. In the double elimination series among the talented ballplayers, lanky Greg started the last four games.

Although he was later to become an outstanding southpaw hurler on the sandlots and for Garden City East High School, it was Greg's bat that helped his team fight its way into the championship day of this world series.

IT SEEMS LIKE ONLY

YESTERDAY that once-defeated Garden City met unbeaten Knoxville, whose season record was a glittering 31-1 mark. The host team was in the driver's seat as they only needed one win to claim the national title.

Fourteen-year-old Mike Wiacek, son of Garden City Parks and Recreation Director, Ray Wiacek, got the starting nod from Manager Gene Downey. The curve-balling right hander fired a four-hit shutout in Garden City's win. Now each team had one loss in the series and the two squads would face each other under the lights — with the winner claiming the world title.

IT SEEMS LIKE ONLY YESTERDAY that the stadium lights were turned on, bathing the field in noonday brilliance. Tension mounted when the starting pitchers began warming up for the championship game. The concrete stands echoed with the chatter of voices as they filled with fans — fans vocally loyal to their Knoxville Bears. Adding to the tension for me and my wife was the sight of Garden City's pitcher warming up.

Terry Bradley, a tall, slender fast-baller, finished his warm-up pitches and donned his jacket. Our hearts beat faster as the starting line-ups were announced over the loudspeaker for the Sandy Koufax championship game. We had confidence our son could win the game if he could stay away from wildness.

IT SEEMS LIKE ONLY YESTERDAY that Greg and Terry were hugging each other around home plate — along with all the other Garden City 14-year-old celebrants. The team had just won the World's Sandy Koufax Baseball Championship and were celebrities on Knoxville television stations and in the local newspapers.

Greg Emery's picture was on the local Knoxville sports pages — an action shot of the lanky, likeable teenager running the bases in the "World Series."

Now, some five years later, Greg's picture appeared recently in the Detroit News and Free Press. His picture and name had often appeared there the past three years — as he starred in baseball, football and basketball for Garden City East High.

The latest picture of Greg was in the papers because he died when his panel truck crashed two weeks ago and he lost his life. He brought many hours of enjoyment to me and many others as we watched him excel in sports over the years. My son, Terry, who played with and against Greg many times on the athletic field, attended Greg's funeral along with many of his buddies.

Now Greg is gone and we will miss his easy-going ways and boyish grin. But most of all, I'll remember how, as a 14-year-old lad, he helped Garden City become champions of the world in the Sandy Koufax World Series. It was in Knoxville, Tenn., back in 1972.

It seems like only yesterday...

Teachers need as much help as their students

To the Editor:

As Mother of a Junior High Girl, I am concerned over the teachers so called concern over the drug problem.

My daughter saw 3 classmates popping pills in the lavatory. They were openly getting stoned. My child has compassion and God's in her life, not drugs. She is troubled, because she can not seem to help her friends.

You see her teacher brushed it all off by being concerned enough over the students, by saying "That's To Bad".

The teacher went on with the class and not giving the life of those students another thought.

It seems to me our teachers need as much help as the students on drugs. These students are only 13 and 14 years of age. The teachers are supposed to be adults.

It seems to me they lack guts, maturity and worse (lack of concern for our students we pay them to teach).

It is the duty of our teachers to round up these kids and contact the parents. If it were my child, I would be forever grateful to any teacher who took such a interest in my child and her students.

Former servicemen sought for extended benefits

Dear Editor:

Many of the former servicemen and women among your readers may be eligible for a new Federal benefit which could bring them an additional $292 to more than $500 per month for nine months.

Because these benefits are subject to an expiration date, the Veterans Administration is making every effort to insure that all eligible veterans are aware of them. Your assistance in alerting those who may be affected will be appreciated.

This significant increase in entitlement for GI Bill educational benefits was approved by Congress late last year. The new provisions can have a total potential value in excess of $4,500 to married veterans with large families.

Basically, the new law provides nine additional months of GI Bill eligibility to most veterans originally entitled to 36 months for VA educational assistance. The new legislation does not change that portion of the law requiring that a veteran must use his GI Bill benefits within ten years of his discharge from service. Therefore, veterans who have been out of the military service for ten years are not eligible for the additional benefits.

The Veterans Administration estimates that 6.1 million veterans are currently eligible for GI Bill benefits, including 3.8 million who have used part of their eligibility and 2.3 million who have not taken advantage of it at all.

We are particularly anxious, however, to reach the half-million men and women who have already used the full 36 months of eligibility that was the maximum entitlement prior to enactment of the new legislation. They may now be entitled to an additional nine months of educational benefits.

We urge all veterans eligible under the criteria outlined above to contact the Veterans Administration for further details of this new entitlement.

Veterans in Michigan should call, visit or write the VA Regional Office, 477 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226. The toll-free telephone number is listed in the telephone directory under the U.S. Government listings.

Your editorial did not go far enough for seniors

To the Editor:

The February 9, 1977, Enterprise-Roman editorial on the aged was commendable, although it did not go far enough. We need more than legislative changes in order to make our society more livable for older people; we need to alter our entire cultural attitude toward growing old.

On a legislative level such bills as the two cited in the Enterprise editorial should be supported by letters and calls to state legislators.

Riegle's bill to increase SSI levels would help to alleviate the abject poverty in which many older people live. (The current minimal level is $192-month, an impossible amount on which to properly maintain a home or lead a healthy life.)

Last summer I encountered a couple in Romulus diagnosed as suffering from malnutrition; they had been living on flour and water pancakes for a week when I visited them.

This is not such an unusual situation: I have seen older people trying to decide whether to go without heat, food, or medicine because they could not afford all three.

Obviously utility bills this winter have become an impossible burden to people with incomes of only several hundred dollars, and utility stamps such as Rep. Varnum has introduced would help to combat this problem.

There are some local agencies trying to address the manifold problems of older people, but these agencies can reach perhaps 10 percent of the people in need of help (that's an optimistic figure); neither legislation nor agency intervention is enough.

Many, many older people lead happy, productive, healthy lives. Many more could if our culture did not make growing older such a terrifying, uncertain experience.

Beyond legislative and social programs we need to examine our feelings about aging and the already aged.

I have often been asked, "Don't you find working with old people depressing?" Well yes, sometimes I do. But it's not the people — there's as much interesting variety among the elderly as in the general population.

It's the abyssmal circumstances which many are forced to live in; the frequent indifference of family, friends, neighbors; the thoughtlessness often endured in stores, offices, on the street.

The elderly are not "like children," they are mature adults with lifetimes of stored experiences. But even mature adults will sometimes capitulate to childlike actions when treated as though helpless, slow-witted, or "senile." (A badly overused and misused word which instantly consigns a person to powerlessness.)

What can we as individuals do to begin to combat these perverse attitudes toward the aged, which have condemned so many of our citizens to miserable existences?

We can make older people a more integral part of our family lives (if you can't get along with your mother, invite someone else's mother to dinner), take an older neighbor shopping once a week, shovel her snow, mow his lawn, cultivate his or her friendship.

It's up to each of us to stop seeing "old" people, and to start seeing PEOPLE who happen to be old.

By GARY OWEN
State Representative-22nd District

Over the last 10 years, a number of proposals have been made for basic and permanent revision of Michigan's method of funding its schools.

Practically all such proposals have been built on certain basic principles:

+ Local school property taxes would be reduced, through changes in the Constitutional provisions that permit school districts to seek and levy such taxes, to about half the existing level or even lower.

+ State income and business taxes would be raised to make up the difference.

+ The state would then guarantee a basic level of funding, whether in terms of dollars per pupil or professionals per thousand pupils, to all school districts.

+ Districts would retain an option of levying some degree of local taxes, usually set at 6 mills, so that citizens who wish to fund a better-than-average program could do so.

All of these basic principles sound highly desirable. Yet back in 1972, Michigan citizens overwhelmingly voted down a proposal of this type. Moreover, the State Board of Education — which has for many years advocated this kind of change — recently changed its position and expressed support for a continuation of the present system of state-local shared funding.

One problem with the concept of major change is, of course, the uncertainty. Schools and citizens alike know what funding and what school taxes they have now; and for all the protests that the funding is too low and the taxes too high, they fear their individual circumstances could be worsened by change.

For all the expense and aggravation, the process of schools seeking taxing authority from voters gives both a measure of control that would otherwise be relinquished to Lansing.

One point seldom made is that major school-finance change, achieved through Constitutional revision, would not really change drastically the amount of revenue received by the schools or the total amount of school taxes the average citizen pays. After all, the citizens who currently determine the amount of school spending through their millage votes are the same citizens who elect legislators under proposed systems of full state funding.

Right now, the average Michigan citizen has determined that his school district should levy 27.98 mills for operating purposes, which will mean basic revenue of $1,194 per pupil in 1976-77. Ypsilanti has approved 29.22 mills for $1,232.09; Willow Run, 32.72 mills for $1,314.92 and Van Buren, 27.65 mills for $1,180.94. Ann Arbor, with both a higher 34.55 mills and an "out-of-formula" tax base, has $1,669.77.

Suppose a system were put into effect whereby the average school tax was cut in half, with a high state income tax, and an optional 6 mill leeway left to the districts?

Assuming schools were given exactly the same priority as today, no greater or lesser, the average citizen would pay 14 mills rather than the present rate of nearly 28 and make up the difference for providing the same $1,194 average revenue with higher income and business taxes.

Assuming the same local variations in the degree of school support, we might predict that Van Buren would be levying only this average, while Ypsilanti levied about 1-1/4 mills of the optional 6. Willow Run levied 4-3/4 and Ann Arbor levied all 6. The owner of a $40,000 home would pay $280 less in property taxes in Van Buren, 279.40 less in Ypsilanti, the same $279.40 less in Willow Run and $291 less in Ann Arbor.

However, if that same homeowner had an average income, he would be paying at least $280 in higher state income taxes to make up the lost revenue.

One of the myths connected with property taxes is the notion that such taxes are paid chiefly by homeowners. Actually, individuals pay about 55 percent of property taxes and business 45 percent.

Where the rest of the tax load is concerned, individuals pay 65 percent and business, 35 percent.

The net result for the schools — once again assuming that the change would neither increase nor decrease total revenue, but would merely redistribute the tax load and the allocation — would be a slight comparative improvement for Van Buren ($12 per pupil in 1976-77 terms) and a more substantial reduction of Ann Arbor's favorable position, although this might be phased in over a number of years.

Unless it is believed that a higher total tax load for the schools would be approved, as the result of a reduction in the portion of school costs met through property taxes and an increase in the portion met through income taxes, there is no reason to believe that the funding position of "in-formula" districts that currently levy between 28 and 34 mills would be changed. However, it might be possible that the authority for levying amounts of the "optional" 6 mills would be granted for longer periods of time, and that the expense and uncertainty of frequent millage elections would therefore be greatly diminished.

City employee status report

By JAMES STEWART
ROMULUS MAYOR

The question has been raised publicly regarding recent jobs and services provided to the City of Romulus through federally funded programs.

I would like to briefly describe what this administration has accomplished during the last six months and publicly report on the work of the Community Development Department, as presented in two public hearings held last week.

In August, 1976, I hired a new Community Development Director and assistant to improve the effectiveness of existing federally sponsored programs and to obtain additional federal funds to answer specific needs of the City of Romulus.

A move to upgrade the Community Development Department was essential, since competition for all federally funded programs is extremely intense and requires constant monitoring and the writing of innovative proposals, in order to qualify. (Gross inequities still exist in the system, with the Southern region of the U. S.

receiving approximately $1.25 for every tax dollar paid into the system, as compared to the 55 cents the State of Michigan receives.)

The following contractual agreements for block grants between the City of Romulus and HUD (Department of Housing and Urban Development) were in effect prior to August, 1976:

MEADOWS NEIGHBORHOOD CENTER — established to provide a multi-purpose center and physical protection in a neighborhood originally comprised of 235 HUD homes. This program is under the direction of Joyce Palmer.

TROUTON DRAIN IMPROVEMENT — established to remove and replace contaminated soil in a series of open drains in the Wayne-Beverly residential area in order to rid the area of mosquitos and rodents. This project was completed in September, 1976 under the direction of DPW Director, Dave Paul.

HOME REHABILITATION PROGRAM — designed to provide funds for low interest loans and grants to homeowners to bring their homes up to the housing standards of the City. This program also includes a provision for senior citizen home improvement and home winterization. This program is in its second year under the direction of Beth Spencer.

In August, 1976, a new Neighborhood Conservation Program was added to the Block Grants to provide funds for general community beautification activities, removal of blight and trash and to aid in a city-wide clean up. This program is directed by Eugene Yagley.

In addition to these programs, the city is benefiting in many areas from the services of some 40 CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) employees, including building attendants, DPW workers, clerks, records technicians, stenographers, dispatchers, an animal control officer, fire inspector, legal assistant, loans and grants specialist, outreach worker, counselor and others. This program is supervised by Steve Bonczek, Community Development Director.

Another tremendous need of our community was answered with the appropriation of approximately 1,400,000 dollars for the construction of a new district courthouse and fire station under the Local Public Works Investment Act.

Groundbreaking for these structures is scheduled for April, 1977.

Also included in this Local Public Works Act (title II), is the allocation of funds for employment of persons to provide additional needed services to the City, including a public information officer, a federal program coordinator and an assistant community development director. This program is also administered by Mr. Bonczek.

It is important to remember that all of the above programs are 100 percent federally funded, thereby placing no additional tax burden on the citizens of Romulus. In a future column, I would like to describe some possible future programs now in the planning stages, that, with the continued cooperation of Council, will further enhance and improve our community to the betterment of all its citizens.

Home provides shelter, tax deductions

Plenty of goodies in house ownership

(This is the fourth in a series of articles offering advice on filing 1976 tax income returns, prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.)

A family home provides shelter in many more ways than one. It protects us not only from the elements, but also the tax collector. It is almost a rule of thumb that when you buy a home of your own you give up the standard deduction; the deductions brought by the house usually make itemizing so much more profitable.

While it is true that the Tax Reform Act of 1976 tightened up on some of the tax benefits of home ownership — notably the deduction of maintaining an office in the home — there still are plenty of "goodies" left.

Chief of these continue to be the deductions you get for real estate taxes and interest paid on the mortgage. Those are not affected by the Tax Reform Act.

Regarding the squeeze on offices-in-the-home, Congress merely put the official stamp on a policy toward which the Internal Revenue Service and the courts have been moving for several years. As the law now stands, for an employee to get an office-in-the-home deduction, the space used for that purpose must be used for no other, and maintenance of a workroom at home must be solely for the employer's convenience, not the taxpayer's.

In the opinion of many tax experts, for employees this deduction is virtually eliminated.

If you operate a business or profession out of your home, that's another story. For you the deduction still is very much alive, although in determining what portion of the household maintenance and depreciation costs can be attributed to the business you will have to be more discriminatory. A room used part of the for personal purposes now must be excluded.

Use of a separate structure on your property will make it easier to establish that the space is reserved strictly for business.

However, when it comes to the storage of inventory, the space may be used for non-business purposes part of the time, with the costs of maintaining it pro-rated between business and non-business usage.

That applies only if the home is the sole fixed location for the business.

Business use of the home aside, what other benefits does the structure provide? One is that capital expenditures for medical purposes such as an air conditioning system for an asthmatic, or an elevator for a cardiac patient, may be deductible as a medical expense. Any value the improvement may add to your house, though, must be excluded from this deduction.

The CPA group also points out that if you changed your place of residence in 1976 because of a change in your place of employment, you may be allowed to deduct many of the costs connected with the move — not only the moving van, but up to a $1,000 of pre-move househunting and temporary living expenses and as much as $2,500 for certain costs incurred in selling the old place and buying or renting the new one. Also, the move must have been at least 50 miles.

If you are the fortunate owner of a second home — a vacation cottage which you rent out part of the time, let's say — there are more rules here, too, and they apply to 1976 tax returns. You now can deduct expenses connected with the rental only to the extent that gross rental income exceeds the deductions you would be able to take even if the house were not rented.

For example, if your rental income is $500, your taxes and interest costs are $300, and other expenses such as heating, maintenance, and depreciation are $1,000, you are allowed to deduct only the $300 of interest and taxes plus $200 of the other expenses.

The only way to deduct all the expenses is by using the house yourself no more than 14 days during the year, or 10 percent of the time it is rented out, whichever is greater. That makes it an ordinary business investment, qualifying for the usual business deductions.

A warning here from the CPA Association though: the cottage must earn a profit at least two years out of every five or IRS may decide it's a hobby rather than a true investment.

Gas firms offers its budget plan to beat high bills

In the face of severely cold weather and rising natural gas costs, Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. has begun offering its residential heating customers the opportunity to join its Budget Payment Plan midway through the heating season.

Customers who join the plan in February can avoid peak heating bills for the rest of the winter. Instead, the bills will be averaged into six equal monthly payments from now through the end of July, said Michigan Consolidated President Charles R. Montgomery.

"Because of the unprecedented cold weather we have experienced, coupled with higher natural gas prices, the monthly bills of our residential customers are as much as 50 percent higher than last winter," Montgomery said. "In order to help our customers meet monthly bills for the rest of the heating season, we now are offering them the option of joining our budget plan."

All residential heating customers not already enrolled in the program will be receiving bills in February for gas consumed in January. The bills will show what is owned but also will indicate on the bill what the customer would pay, if enrolled in the budget plan.

Customers wishing to join the plan, Montgomery said, need only pay the budget amount shown and they will automatically be enrolled in the program. Those choosing not to join the plan should pay the actual amount due.

The budget amounts shown on gas bills are based upon what Michigan Consolidated expects the individual household to consume between February and the end of July. This total amount is then divided by six to arrive at the monthly payment amount.

Bids will be taken

According to State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-Romulus), bids were to have been taken in Lansing today by the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation on several highway construction projects.

Major work scheduled for bid-taking in Wayne County included:

- Addition of turn lanes, grading, drainage structures, paving and curb on Goddard Road extension between Rogell Drive and Middle Belt Road near Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus, costing approximately $400,000 and to be completed by October.
- Construction of a 2-mile segment of paved bicycle path including two timber bridges along the I-275 Freeway between Northline and Hannan roads in Romulus as part of the 38-mile bicycle and pedestrian path paralleling I-275 between I-75 in Monroe County and I-96 in Novi, costing about $200,000 and to be completed by August.

The bicycle path, and others beside Michigan freeways, were made possible by the enactment of a bill, Act 212, P.A. 1974, introduced by Mahalak.

Under the former law, bicycles were banned from limited access highways, the same as other forms of non-motorized vehicles, farm tractors and pedestrians. The department of State Highways and transportation was unable to proceed with its plans for a series of bicycle paths beside the freeways until the passage of the Mahalak bill.

The bike path at Romulus is one of many already built or planned for the state's freeway system.

"I am especially pleased that the Highway Commission is taking bids to continue the construction of bicycle paths along I-275", Mahalak said. "It will be an important part of the state-wide parallel bicycle path system. It will be designated for the exclusive use of bicyclists and pedestrians, will be relatively safe and will not interfere with freeway traffic."

"I am sure it will be widely used by local bicyclists."

County submits application for its block grant funding

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has authorized an application for third-year funding under the Community Development Block Grant program which is expected to attract about $3 million on behalf of 24 out-county communities.

The application is being prepared jointly by the County Office of Program Development and Coordination, and Planning Commission, and will be submitted to the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Prior to its submission to Washington, the application must be reviewed by the board's Public Works Committee and receive final approval of the full board. The board authorized the application Feb. 4.

Last year under the program the coalition of 24 communities were awarded $1.9 million for use for housing and other projects such as improvements on parks and neighborhood playgrounds, senior citizen services, and storm and water mains.

In the program, eligible counties — those with a population over 200,000 — organize smaller member communities — those local governments with populations under $50,000 — then file an application in behalf of the entire group.

The communities participating again this year include Allen Park, Brownstown Township, Canton Township, Ecorse, Flat Rock, Gibraltar, Grosse Ile Township, Grosse Pointe, Grosse Pointe Park, Harper Woods and Huron Township.

Also included are Melvindale, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Riverview, Southgate, Sumpter Township, Trenton, Van Buren Township, Woodhaven and Wyandotte.

Other communities in the county have chosen not to participate in the coalition, and instead prefer to submit applications directly to HUD.

According to terms of the application by the coalition, funds will be available July 1, if the grant is approved at the federal level.

case less than the current established installation charge.

(3) All taps other than those outlined in item two (2) above shall be catalogued in to one of the following categories and indicated on a set of master sanitary sewer plans which shall be maintained on file in the Water and Sewer Department. The categories and charges shall be as follows:

(a) A City operated sanitary sewer is available to the premises in question and a sewer service installation will be provided to the nearest available property line to the sewer by the City for basic sewer service installation charge except in those cases where the provision of item two (2) above applies.

(b) A City operated sanitary sewer can be made available to the premises in question when the following criteria for eligibility to receive sewer services installation are met:

(1) An available sewer main must be located within 120 Feet of any property line of proposed new customer or a user; providing, however, if it should be necessary to bring the existing sewer line across any hard surfaced road (defined as asphalt and/or concrete) over twenty four feet in width, then the service shall only be provided at the sole expense of the effective property owner.

(2) The available main must have adequate capacity to accommodate the increase flow which will result from the proposed sewer service installation.

(3) In the event that the available sewer main is inadequate depth, then it shall be the responsibility of the proposed customer or user to submit engineering detail of a proposed lift station and/or other information to the Department of Public Works demonstrating the acceptability of the proposed tap. In such event, the Cost of engineering or equipment required shall be paid in advance by the proposed customer or user. An inspection fee equal to three (3 per cent) per cent of the cost of such installation and equipment to be installed will be paid to the City Treasurer.

(c) A sanitary sewer operated by an agency other than the City can be made available to the premises in question provided the necessary permits can be obtained from that agency. However, such a connection was not anticipated in the development of the City's sewer program or the establishment of the sewer service installation charge; therefore, the charge for such an installation shall be one hundred and twenty (120 per cent) per cent of the cost of making the connection, but in no case less than the current established sewer service installation charge.

(d) A sanitary operated by either the City or another agency is located in the area. However, due to existing conditions, it is not practical to make a sewer service installation.

(4) In those instances where, with the consent of the Department of Public Works, an applicant elects to install the entire sanitary sewer house lead, from the sanitary sewer to the property line at his own expense, the sewer service installation charge may be waived and a special inspection charge of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars per tap assessed in its place.

10.3 SEWER SERVICE INSTALLATION CHARGE FOR LOW INCOME RESIDENTS.

Upon application by the equitable owner of a residence, the Department of Public Works may direct that the sewer service installation charge as authorized in Section 10.2 of this Ordinance, be paid by a Fifty ($50.00) Dollar down-payment, and the remainder in sixteen equal quarterly installments commencing with the next regular quarterly billing. The Department of Public Works shall not take such action unless it shall find:

(1) That the applicant and his dependent residing with him do not have a combined average monthly gross income for the past twelve months in excess of the following amount:

APPLICANT AND NUMBER OF DEPENDENTS	AVERAGE ANNUALLY GROSS INCOME
1	$2,985.00
2	3,855.00
3	4,425.00

By head of county board

Chairman of committees are selected

The chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has announced appointments to the board's five standing committees for the coming year.

"All committees will be chaired by different commissioners than those who chaired in the previous year, with the exception of the Ways and Means Committee," Chairman

John Barr said.

"This is certainly not to suggest that last year's chairmen were ineffective. Quite the contrary, they are better and stronger for having been chairmen," he added. "I believe it enhances our board to further develop the leadership in as many individuals as possible. To this end, I have named four new chairpeople, believing we will all be better for it."

Samuel A. Turner (D-Detroit) continues as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. This generally is regarded as the most important committee because all 27 commissioners are members and it considers all matters involving money.

The Public Safety and Judiciary Committee will be chaired by Rose Mary C. Robinson, an attorney, who is a Democrat from Detroit. Vice-chairman will be George F. Killen (D-Detroit).

Clemens E. Bykowski (D-Detroit) will chair the General Government Committee with William G. Suzore (D-Lincoln Park) as vice-chairman.

Jackie L. Currie takes over as chairman of the Human Resources Committee and Edward K. Michalski will serve as vice-chairman. Both are Detroit Democrats.

The Public Works Committee will have Edgar Harris (D-Taylor) as chairman and Chester Wozniak (D-Hamtramck) as vice-chairman.

Other members of the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee are Arthur M. Carter, Paul G. Citkowski, Richard E. Manning, and Norbert Wisniewski, all Detroit Democrats.

Serving with Bykowski and Suzore on the General Government Committee are Mary E. Dumas (R-Livonia), Clarence R. Young (D-Ecorse), William Sullivan (D-Wyandotte) and Samuel Turner (D-Detroit).

Other members appointed to the Human Resources Committee are John J. Korney (D-Detroit), Ervin ensure the constant upgrading of our educational system."

The state aid payments to school districts are made on Aug. 1, Oct. 1, Dec. 1, Feb. 1, April 1 and June 1 and include funds specific districts receive under Title I of the Elementary-Secondary Education Act of 1965 and the Vocational Education Act of 1963.

Manpower Office foots bill for county training programs

Wayne County's Manpower Office is willing to foot the bill for $2 million worth of innovative job training programs for the county's unemployed. But finding these programs isn't easy, the office has discovered.

In the past, they have put notices in the legal sections of Detroit's daily newspapers seeking proposals from schools, organizations and, in a few cases, individuals who are able to provide classroom and practical job training, according to Arthur M. Lewis, director of the Wayne County Office of Manpower.

"From our responses, we have been able to implement successful job training programs in licensed practical nursing, clerical work, claims adjusting, auto mechanics, electronics, ceramic tile setting and housing rehabilitation," he explained.

Nature has spot in art

A special "Art and Nature" workshop will be held at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Ed Manning, art instructor at Huron High School, will demonstrate the creation of art objects by using natural materials.

For additional information, contact the Nature Center at Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255.

Right now, a search is being conducted for additional programs. "We are seeking some new, innovative ways to train people for employment. Our emphasis will be on programs which will provide occupational training for those who do not have the educational background to qualify for traditional schools and colleges," Lewis said.

The Office of Manpower was established in 1974 by the county Board of Commissioners for the purpose of developing and administering employment training programs through the Comprehensive Education and Training Act of 1973.

They have developed a manpower delivery system for eligible residents of Wayne County excluding the cities of Detroit, Dearborn and Livonia which have their own programs.

The classroom training programs Manpower is seeking will serve those who are eligible and live within the service area. Training proposals will be considered which offer both occupational and remedial training.

The Advisory Planning Council for the Wayne County Office of Manpower has mandated that the greater emphasis be placed on training those in the 18 to 30 age bracket and for those who lack a strong educational background.

The council also mandated that great emphasis be placed on serving those who are economically disadvantaged, particularly women, blacks, Spanish speaking people, recently discharged veterans, and those over 45 years of age.

Institutions and agencies with prior occupational training experience will receive preference over those who have not provided training before.

"We are hoping some agencies or schools which can offer new programs to suit our needs will come forward," Lewis said.

Anyone wishing further information should contact the Wayne County Office of Manpower Proposal Review Committee, 1600 David Stott Building, 1150 Griswold, Detroit 48226.

The workshop will feature a discussion on the use of pesticides, types of spray equipment and pruning demonstrations. A portion from adverse weather. People can call the Wayne County Extension Service at 721-6550 or 563-2400 for more details.

ANP's new column

Seniors, this is for you

In the coming weeks Associated Newspapers will be bringing the community a new feature.

Spotlighting the lives of our senior citizens will be the main thrust of the new column, written by Maureen Beatty.

In the weeks to come stories on transportation, home repair, legal aid, medical checkups, employment, nutrition, shopping, health, yoga, arts and crafts, bowling and dancing, will be presented.

This feature is for you, the senior citizen. Any suggestions or comments on any of the subjects presented, or thoughts on subject matter which you feel should be included in the feature, will be gladly accepted.

NEXT WEEK: Miss Beatty talks about loneliness.

And now may we introduce you to Maureen:

A native of Massachusetts, Maureen has lived in the Wayne-Westland area for the past 19 years. Finding herself in the "between" years with a busy husband and grown son, she returned to work last year "to feel useful."

In doing so she found a new interest, the lives of the senior citizens she comes in contact with daily.

"As the Site Manager of "J" Building, Eloise, for the Out Wayne County Nutrition Program, she has met men and women with a variety of life styles, and personalities as varied as their number.

Seniors can be a wealth of information, encouragement and humor. And, oh so endearing."

"Yet there are many problems facing our older citizens. Some of our seniors, who in the past supported our country with their tax dollars, now find it difficult to live gracefully from one Social Security check to the next.

Title VII of The Older Americans Act is just one of many programs the Government has initiated to correct this problem."

Maureen's favorite senior citizen is her 77 year old mother who "can still out talk, out think, and out wit me".

Rep. Ford renews efforts to halt 'runaway' plant woe

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has renewed his drive for legislation to halt the growing problem of "runaway" plants — business and manufacturing firms which relocate usually in southern states, to find lower wage scales, better tax rates or other benefits.

"These 'runaway' plants are bringing us a legacy of higher unemployment, reduced property values and uprooted families," Ford said. "The problem is reaching such proportions that action is imperative."

Congressman Ford has co-sponsored legislation which would offer a substantial tax break for industries which modernize existing plants or construct new ones in the same area, rather than move to another state.

The bill would provide an investment credit of 20 percent to industries which modernize plants more than 25 years old, or construct new ones within 10 miles of an existing plant.

"We feel this would stimulate industrial modernization and expansion, and curb the 'runaway' plant problem," Ford said.

"Many of the plants in the industrialized north and midwest are so old and obsolescent that they cannot adequately compete with newer plants in other areas of the nation or even in other countries," he continued. "Most of these newer plants were financed at least partially with tax incentives.

"It is only fair to use these same incentives to preserve existing business locations and existing jobs."

Early this year, Congressman Ford re-introduced his "plant-closing" bill which he first offered several years ago in conjunction with Walter Mondale, then U.S. Senator from Minnesota, and now the Vice-President. The legislation would establish a national commission to review any proposed major plant relocation, and try to work out any financial or other problems causing the move. In the event of a major relocation, the commission would help alleviate economic and social problems left behind.

Markers settle in Flat Rock after 3-week honeymoon

Following their January 8 wedding and reception, the newly wed Robert James Markers left for a three week honeymoon in Florida, North Carolina and Washington, D. C. Since their return they have taken up residence at the bridegroom's apartment at 25702 Bretton Circle Dr., Flat Rock.

Juanita Lee Butzin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Butzin of 17950 Vining Rd., Romulus, became Mrs. Marker during a 4 p.m. ceremony at St. Stephen's Catholic Church in New Boston.

The Rev. Alexander Wytrowski presided at the double ring rite before an altar appointed with two arrangements of white pomps and yellow mums set amid a grouping of red poinsettia plants and lighted tapers.

Some 300 assembled guests saw the bride given in marriage by her mother and father. For her wedding day, Juanita selected a gown of sate peau over bridal taffeta and Chantilly lace. The little fitted bodice featured an illusion neckline formed into a "V" with a bishop collar and full bishop sleeves. The lace-banded A-line skirt drifted into a chapel train as she walked.

Her matching fingertip veil, caught to a Camelot cap, was accented with a scalloped edge outlined in delicate lace. Adding to her bridal finery was a circular bouquet of red roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Karen Bolton of Ypsilanti, who was her cousin's maid of honor, appeared in an empire style gown designed with a gold velvet bodice and skirt of sheer fabric trimmed with pastel maribou. A gold velvet muff with a corsage of pastel tinted carnations attached and a matching headdress completed her ensemble.

Dresses, fashioned in the same manner, were chosen with pine green, royal blue, deep purple and burgundy bodices and white skirts for the quintet of bridesmaids. Attendants included Rochelle Marker of Port Huron, sister of the bridegroom; Lee Ann Piggott of Flat Rock; Teri Oskey of Belleville, cousin of the bride; Nancy Lenart of New Boston and Denise Marker of Decker, niece of the bridegroom.

Seven-year old Vickie German, daughter of the Lee Germans, was flowergirl in a toe-touching frock made with a deep purple velvet bodice and sheer white skirt. She, too, carried a muff with a small corsage atop. Melvin Butzin, eight, son of the Melvin Butzins, carried out the duties of ringbearer.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Micheal Marker of 426 Gibbs, Caro, Mich., asked his friend, Coke Geilhart of Caro, to serve as best man. Others on the esquire side were Daryl Berg of Canton; Pat Putman of Bad Axe; Greg Bolton of Ypsilanti, a cousin of the bride; Gary Derke of Belleville, and Timothy Huziak of Belleville, the bride's God-son.

At the reception which followed at the UAW Hall in Flat Rock, the bride's mother greeted relatives and friends in a formal length gown with a burgundy velvet bodice and pink chiffon skirt. For her son's wedding, Mrs. Marker donned a pale blue floor-length frock with a blue floral jacket. Both were honored with corsages of white carnations and pink roses.

The new Mrs. Marker is a 1975 graduate of Huron High School. Her husband, who graduated from Caro High School and Lansing Community College, is employed with the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

The wedding rehearsal was held at Harbor House in Riverview.

Gary Owen guest speaker at ABWA February meeting

The American Business Women's Association, (ABWA), Huron Valley Charter Chapter of Ypsilanti, observed its Citizenship Month recently at Nickerson's Tin Lizzie in Belleville.

Guest speaker was State Representative Gary Owen who is serving on the House Appropriations Committee during his third term. During his previous term he was majority whip of the House of Representatives.

He spoke on the major concerns of the 27th District of Michigan in the next two years including the distribution of natural resources to heat our homes, the school finance situation, utilities, energy needs and the hard work legislators are doing to improve their images.

On the subject of natural gas to heat our homes, he said that we are fortunate because Michigan went into the reserve system sometime ago instead of relying entirely on the pipeline system. He also said that the school system of financing relies upon the concept that people in the community want local control of their schools. He pointed out that the public may be reaching a point where they may be willing to give up this control to the state which will involve dealing more with bureaucracy. A brief question and answer period followed.

Vocational speaker for the evening was Naomi Welch, a teller at Wyandotte Savings Bank in Belleville. Her subject was antiques and she displayed two pieces of carnival glass — one made in the 1890's and now worth $85 and a cosmos plate worth $150. She and her husband are also interested in walnut and oak furniture.

The Chapter discussed plans for the enrollment event on March 24 and the raffle tickets to be sold at $1 each for the scholarship fund.

A candlelight ceremony was held to initiate the new members: Mary Plummer, a switchboard operator for the Veterans Administration; Louise Leonard, owner Jerry's Foxy Lady Beauty Salon, and Dorothy King, hairdresser at Jerry's Foxy Lady. The newcomers were flanked by their sponsors while the rite was conducted by Caroline Hesson, president; Edith Davenport, vice-president, and Bunny Hardy, membership chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle of Denton Road were Tuesday dinner guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. Miles Berkey of Toledo, Ohio.

Furniture budgeting a 'must' these days

People setting up housekeeping for the first time are often shocked when they discover how expensive it is, ranging from $1,500 for a small apartment to over $6,000 for a home in the $40,000 price class.

"That's why it's important to save up as much as you can for furnishings and household equipment while you're saving for the downpayment on the house itself," advises John L. Domeier, chairman and president of Great American Federal Savings and Loan Association, of Oak Park, Ill.

If you can't accumulate all the money you need to furnish your new home completely the way you want it, there are ways to stretch your budget, including buying second-hand furniture or renting it.

How can you keep the cost down? The people at Great American Federal have these suggestions:

1. Make a list of what you need. If people offer to give presents, tell them what's on your list.

2. If you're just starting out, plan on inexpensive furnishings. Chances are you'll refurnish several times in your lifetime, particularly if you are mobile, and there's no point buying top-quality furnishings and equipment at the start.

Don't plan on getting everything all at once. Few people can afford it. Start with the basics and then add on as your budget permits.

4. Plan on using furniture for other purposes in later years. For example, a twin-size or Hollywood bed you buy today can be used as a guest room daybed in later years. A wrought iron dining room suite can be used on the patio in the future.

5. Use inexpensive substitutes on a temporary basis. Boards and bricks make good bookcases. Curtains made out of colored sheets may cost less than the ready-made kind.

6. Don't try to imitate the tastes or furnishings of people already settled. They didn't do it all at once. Neither should you.

These are just some of the ways you can furnish and equip a new home. Keep them in mind when you make your housekeeping plans, save as much as you can of your own money to provide for what you'll need, and you'll be on your way to enjoying your new home.

Reflections

Through the magnified looking glass

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

"You're not alone, you know. You're not the only one with those problems," a good friend chided me recently as I groused on what a pain bifocals were proving to be.

Her words, which made me realize that my own lamentations had been echoed by a host of my contemporaries at one time or another, have (somewhat belatedly) sawed through the wooden penthouse leased by my brain.

But is it really true that I'm in communion with hundreds of my Western Wayne County sisters? That each time I add another five minutes for reconstruction (make-up), I am repeating a scene familiar to thousands of kindred souls across the country? It is rather a nice feeling knowing there's a sorority out there just for gals of my ilk.

But nice only 'til the next battle with the mirror, mascara and my eyesight! In a peanut shell, I am farsighted and rely, almost fanatically, on the ol' horn rims for ANY close work. Thankfully those crutches hold me up most of the time. But how in Helena Rubenstein do I get my eye makeup on without looking like a latter-day Alice Cooper!

Where Maybelline once performed her duties with a few casual, feathery strokes, she now needs a plumb line and level to get it all together. Even calling on the muscle power of Max Factor hasn't produced the promised "pure magic."

When one has been by-passed by the highway of thick, lustrous lashes, one simply resorts to the Avons, Revlons and Cotys. We've all seen the wonders they've worked for those women named "before" in all the fashion glossies. Resisting the allure and atmosphere of J.L.H.'s Aisles of Beauty, I find it more convenient to dash off (well, sorta plod) to K-Mart's Rows for the Wretched.

Despite Glamour's and Mademoiselle's proclamations that eyeliner is out, out, out, there obviously are disbelievers (other than D.C. and me) since cosmetic firms continue to manufacture the vital line. Afterall, anemic lashes need transfusions, too.

And therein lies the tale —. Not wanting to be obvious about the "passe" product", I strive for a mere hint of sooty roots as I shakily (don't blink now) touch down on the orbital airstrip. V-e-r-y carefully now (don't blink!) I glide along with the magical liner and lift off ever so gently. Ah-h

That's when, slipping on my glasses, I discover an advanced case of jet lag and usually break the sound barrier with one of several choice expletives. Not only are there terrible bumps along the landing pad but one is now able to play connect-the-dots on the entire eyelid (I TRIED not to blink!)

The next action involves a double-barreled Q-tip which, I've learned, does a neat job on cleaning up messes if used with a light, dabbing, no-smear touch to tenderly erase the previous drawings.

What's so deflating, on starting all over again, is to zero in on the subjects and discover that 10-4 (over and out) is creeping in on what was once 20-20. To find, when I flip the makeup mirror, that I'm ALREADY using the magnified side is quite a frightening warning sign.

The only thing clear to me anymore is an understanding of why I used to see women having their eyebrows plucked in the beauty shop. Where once I considered it a somewhat frivolous indulgence, I now am seriously considering a beautician for my seeing-eye dog.

To have to set your glasses on the tip of your nose, tilt your head back at a 45-degree angle and then strain to see if you can find those straying brows is just too much for Mrs. McGoo.

If I someday take on the characteristics of John L. Lewis or begin to resemble one of the Muppets, it's cuz (1) I opted for the natural look (2) my neck bone disconnected from my shoulder bone (3) I just gave up!

It's just too much of a struggle maneuvering the tweezers over, under, around and behind the glass frames. Plus I'm tired of ending up with brows that resemble shorthand squiggles.

So — if you circled "3" in the above paragraph you (1) don't buy the nature freak theory (2) have a funny way of holding your head (3) have eyebrows with way too much undergrowth.

Shopping abroad
Study Club topic

"Shopping in Foreign Lands" was the theme of the recent Home Life Committee of Belleville Women's Study Club meeting held at the Lemontree Apartments' clubhouse.

Three club members told of their interesting experiences as they tried to shop in foreign countries.

Pat Baughman told of her experiences shopping in a variety of stores while living in a suburb of Buenos Aires, Argentina. Not only did she have to adjust to different shopping customs, she had to learn a new language in order to make herself understood during heated bargaining sessions.

Shirley Books found simple everyday grocery shopping difficult, but interesting, while residing in a London suburb. She told of many amusing incidents, most stemming from the fact that many of our common products — like groceries and clothing — are not available to the English.

Describing her bargain-hunting in Guam and the Philippines was Ruth Cabler, who brought many of her purchases to show the members. Most of the items are not available in this country.

The three globe-trotting ladies helped the Study Club to realize the many shopping advantages Americans have in this country.

Refreshments were served by Home Life Committee members Sylvia Amerman, Phyllis Seaman, Leota Schweigert, Lucille Touse and Virginia Turney.

Pauline Quinley
hostess to PM's

The February meeting of the Past Matrons' Association of Belleville Chapter No. 73, Order Eastern Star, was held at the First United Methodist Church on Feb. 3 with Past Matron Pauline Quinley hostess.

Present for the 12:30 luncheon were 11 members and three guests, Anita Nicholson, Worthy Matron; Kay Parker, Conductress; and Faye Traskos, daughter of the hostess. The Valentine theme was used as table decorations along with vases of red rose buds.

During a short business meeting conducted by the president, Eva Luper, a card was signed to be sent to Cora Bradshaw who was in the hospital. The Chaplain, Dorothy Kellas, had the devotions.

The hostess presented two pencil and paper games with awards being given to Frances McAtee, Kay Parker and Dorothy Kellas. Anita Nicholson won the table prize and the other two vases of roses were given to Francis McAtee and Katherine Sring. Past Matron Ada Sager will be the hostess for March.

HV Garden Club has wildflowers for program

"Wildflowers" was the subject for study by members of the Huron Valley Garden Club at their regular meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Richard Donahay on Denton Road, Belleville.

Mrs. William Hennells narrated a slide program entitled "This is My Father's World," in the absence of its creator, Mrs. McLelland Morford of Flat Rock.

Members of the club will serve as hostesses at a horticulture workshop being held by District One of the Federated Garden Clubs next month at the First Presbyterian Church of Dearborn. Plans for attending the March 4 program were discussed.

The afternoon concluded with refreshments served by the hostess.

For an exotic touch

This exotic dessert of fruit is delicately sauteed in butter to prepare the pieces for dipping into a maple sesame syrup, then again into sesame seeds. It is easy to serve, a

Delight guests with fondue

Borrow ideas from the Orient when you are in the mood to prepare something special. This recipe for Fruit Oriental is a great American treat adapted especially for ease in cooking, as well as for use of easily available ingredients.

For Fruit Oriental use either fresh or canned fruits, or a combination of both, with serving dishes chosen to emphasize the exotic, oriental appearance.

It's a great time for you to use that old fondue set in a wonderfully new way. To serve, let each guest spear a piece of sauteed fruit with a wooden pick and dip it into the heated mixture of Log Cabin Syrup and sesame seeds, and then into a bowl of sesame seeds. It's a unique way to enjoy fruit.

Fruit Oriental

Assorted fruits, cut in about 75 bite-size pieces *
1 cup (about) cornstarch

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup maple-blended syrup
1/4 cup sesame seed, toasted

* Use bananas, peaches, oranges, apples, and pineapple ... or well-drained canned fruits, such as mandarin oranges, pineapple chunks, sliced peaches.

Roll fruit pieces in cornstarch. Saute in butter or margarine until lightly browned. Drain; then arrange on warmed platter to serve.

Meanwhile, combine maple-blended syrup and 2 teaspoons of the sesame seeds. Heat just to the boiling point. Place syrup mixture and remaining sesame seed in separate bowls. To serve, let each guest spear each piece of fruit with a wooden pick and dip into syrup mixture; then dip in sesame seed. Makes 8 servings.

Note: To serve as a compote, pour hot syrup mixture over sauteed fruits. Sprinkle with remaining sesame seed.

Food--the key to affluence

When the first English colonists came to America in 1607, the Indians barely subsisted even though practically all of their activity was spent in getting food. The Indians were the new world's original farmers, according to Dorn Diehl, state executive director of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office.

The Indians had been farming for centuries prior to the arrival of Columbus. They raised corn, tomatoes, potatoes, beans, squash, yams and other crops. Today there are four times as many farm workers in the United States as there were Indians in 1607 — yet these farm workers feed 200 times as many Americans with an infinite variety of food. In addition, there is enough left over to make us the world's largest agricultural exporter, according to Diehl.

In the meantime, we have laced the Nation with roads and railroads and have put people on wheels and in the air. We have built enormous cities, have constructed millions of factories and businesses, and have put a school, hospital and library just around the corner or down the road. In addition, we have brought the world's events, often in living color, into almost every home and have achieved the highest level of affluence in the world, Diehl said.

Man's economic activity starts with food. With the time and money you have left after obtaining your food, you can do other things. It is these other things that ordinarily measure wealth and affluence. So, the easier you get your food, with the least amount of time and income, the more wealth and affluence you can have. That is true for individuals and it is true for nations. Few of us in America really appreciate the affluence that most of us enjoy, Diehl concluded.

Stir-fry vegetables now on the market

If rice was not cleaned properly, he refused it. If meat was out of season, he would not touch it, nor would he consider it unless the appropriate sauce was served. Vegetables were his pet peeve and woe betide the place chef who failed to dice, slice or mince them to his liking. Confucius was very fastidious about his food.

Two new Birds Eye stir-fry vegetables, Cantonese style and Mandarin style, are being introduced nationally this month and both would be to an emperor's taste.

The Cantonese style consists of broccoli, enriched rice, bean sprouts, red and green peppers and onions. The Mandarin style combines broccoli, cauliflower, bean sprouts, celery and onions. Each 30-ounce package of the new items also contains a packet of oriental-style seasoning to delicately enhance the crisp vegetables which are pre-cut to a uniform size.

Like others in the stir-fry line, Japanese, Chinese and Hawaiian styles, the new varieties are simple to prepare. Vegetables are spread over the surface of a hot skillet. A small amount of oil is added and stirred quickly to coat pieces. Cover and cook 2 minutes. Sprinkle seasonings over vegetables, add a small amount of water and stir for just 30 seconds. Confucius would have loved them.

Yes, carpet padding does make a difference

If 1977 will be the "Year of New Carpet" at your house, plan to use part of your carpet dollars for a good carpet pad.

A good underlay will lengthen the life of the carpet by cushioning it against everyday traffic and pressure from furniture legs. It will also provide extra insulation against heat and cold and an added measure of sound absorbency.

The most commonly used materials in carpet pads are hair, hair and jute, foam rubber or sponge rubber.

Hair or hair and jute pads have a natural lasting resiliency that holds up well under traffic. Most will have a layer of latex on one or both sides. Though the latex increases the cost, it renders the pad less susceptible to moth or mildew damage.

Carpet pads are sold according to weight. Hair or hair and jute pads range from 32 ounces to 80 ounces per square yard, with 40 ounces recommended for home use.

Pads of foam or sponge rubber are moth, beetle and mildew-proof as well as nonallergenic. These materials are slow to dry, however, and should not be used where moisture is a problem.

For normal traffic areas, the one-quarter inch thickness or 40-ounce weight is recommended. On stairs and upstairs hallways a slightly thicker pad will help muffle the noise of foot traffic.

If the carpet you have chosen has pile one-half inch deep or deeper, trying a sample of it with several different thicknesses of padding. Too much bounce makes walking and standing fatiguing and vacuuming difficult.

Also test carpet and cushion at doorways to see if doors will move easily over both thicknesses.

Remember, you cannot depend on a good quality carpet pad to make up for poor quality carpet, especially in heavy to medium traffic areas.

We're Glad You Asked!

with Harold Rediske UHT Memorial Funeral Home

What is involved in a funeral cost?

There are generally four funeral expenses which can be incurred: 1) professional services of a funeral director and his funeral home, including facilities, staff-time, equipment and casket; 2) the cemetery plot and opening of the grave; 3) monument or grave marker; and 4) miscellaneous expenses such as flowers, obituaries and extra limousines.

Some of these expenditures are optional. Most of them have fairly wide range of costs, depending on the family's wishes. You will not find any undue influence exerted for exorbitant funeral costs by funeral directors in this service area. We — and most funeral directors we know — prefer that the funeral expenses be appropriate for each family served. We spend much time with each family to make sure that all arrangements and decisions will best serve their own interests.

We'd be glad to discuss this in complete detail, showing you the ranges in pricing available to you.

Mexican food: Cookery based on history

What comes to mind when you think of Mexican food? Tacos? Enchiladas? Tamales?

Many Americans conjure up thoughts of tortillas filled with hot sauce and beans. But Mexican cuisine is much more than a collection of spicy dishes, covered with tomato sauce. It's a richly diverse and sophisticated kind of cookery based on 500 years of history and tradition.

The culinary cross-breeding of Mayan, Incan, Aztec and Spanish foods produced a style of cooking that's a unique and distinctive hybrid. Truly, it's a Mexican "melting pot."

When the Spanish explorer Cortez landed in Mexico in the 16th century, he discovered an already sophisticated Indian Cuisine.

The food displays in the Aztec capital of Tenochtitlan—now Mexico City—dazzled the weary Spaniard. As a visitor of Montezuma's court, he watched the Aztec emperor dine on such delicacies as white tamales with beans forming a sea shell on top, turkey with a sauce of small chilies, tomatoes and ground squash seeds, white fish with yellow chili, lobster with red chili, tomato and ground squash seeds, squash flowers, small cactus fruits with fish eggs, and numerous chocolate drinks.

The menu included hundreds of items.

The Indians relied on the region's abundant game and fish as mainstays of their diet. But plain roast meat was rare in traditional Mexican cooking, partly because it had to be boiled for hours before human teeth could cope with its toughness.

So, almost everything was cooked in a sauce to add flavor.

The full Mexican cuisine has hundreds of sauces. Some are simple, just chilies — or chilies, onions and tomatoes—chopped fine, mixed with water or vinegar. The more complicated sauces generally are called moles, which comes from the Aztec word molli meaning a sauce flavored with chili.

Three bold flavors dominated Mexican cooking: red, green and black chilies, lime-flavored cornmeal and beans.

There are an estimated 61 classified varieties of chilies in Mexico alone, and they come sweet, pungent and hot. Mexican cuisine always has been a challenge to the senses and the distinctive taste of chilies is a great contributing factor.

Corn was the sacred plant of the Mexican Indian religion. And it was the main source of energy and protein in the Indian diet. Many foods were made from this versatile plant, but the most important was the tortilla (made from lime-flavored cornmeal). It became Mexico's national bread, its staff and staple of life and cooking. Mexican Indians prepared tortillas more than 3,000 years ago. Today, tortilla factories mass produce these corn cakes, using the same ingredients as the early Indians: corn, powdered lime and water.

Although corn was the Indians' staple, beans also were important for they supplied protein. In Aztec times there probably were even more kinds of beans than corn. They came in many sizes from very small to very large. They were white, black, yellow, red, brown, pink and speckled. They were boiled in stews and soups or mashed and mixed with chili or other flavorings.

The chili-corn-bean combination formed the food foundation of the ancient Indian civilization.

The influx of Spanish conquistadors had a deep impact on Mexican cooking. The Spaniards brought with them new foods and cooking techniques which helped to widen the Mexican food horizon.

One of the most important contributions from the Old World was livestock — namely pigs and dairy cattle.

From the swine came lard. The Spanish showed the Indians how to cook many foods in a new and handy way, by frying. The pre-Conquest Indians had not used cooking fats or oils. Their food was boiled, broiled, steamed or eaten raw. Their fancy dishes were elaborate stews containing many ingredients cooked into a thick sauce. Frying added a new dimension.

Now, perhaps half of all Mexican food is fried in some way.

The Spanish introduced dairy cattle to Mexico in 1530, bringing with them two new foods, milk and cheese.

The Indians soon learned how to make the cheeses for which Spain was so renowned and quickly adapted them into their own cuisine. Cheese has such an affinity to chilies and corn, that one cannot think of tamales, enchiladas, tacos and soups without it.

Northern Mexico, in particular, used a lot of cheese. One popular dish was a rich potato soup — first frying the potatoes with onions, tomatoes and chili — covered with a substantial layer of cheese.

Dairy cattle also provided a source of favorite sweetmeats and desserts. The Spanish nuns who came to Mexico quickly learned to reproduce their treasured sweets. One dish, the caramel flan, became the national dessert.

Spain also was responsible for bringing beef cattle, lamb, goats, chicken, wheat, rice, garlic and almonds to the New World.

The rapidity with which the New World accepted Old World food stuffs was matched by the speed of the reverse process. The Spaniards, obsessed by gold, did not realize at first that the real treasure of the Americas was corn, potatoes, tomatoes, chilies, chocolate, tobacco, avocados, peanuts, beans, squash, vanilla, sweet potatoes and pineapples.

These foods quickly spread to other parts of the world and today it is hard to imagine living without them.

Mexican cookery developed in a culture influenced by bright colors, bold shapes and piquant fragrances. That's why it's so appealing to the eye as well as the palate. A culinary gift to the world from the Mexican "melting pot."

Beat together butter and cheese until well blended. Stir in mustard, seasoned salt, green chilies, pimiento and Worcestershire sauce. Add flour and mix to a stiff dough. Shape level tablespoonfuls of dough to form balls. Place on cookie sheets. With tines of fork dipped in flour, press down lightly to make crisscrosses on each. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven about 20 minutes or until very lightly browned. Serve warm. Yields 2½ dozen.

CHEESE-ONION ENCHILADAS

Enchilada Sauce:
1 package (1½ oz.) enchiladas sauce mix
½ cups water
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce

Cheese Onion filling:
3 tablespoons light cream or Half and Half

To assemble enchiladas, lightly brown each tortilla over medium high heat on both sides in a lightly buttered skillet until heated through and softened, but not crisp. Dip each warm tortilla in enchilada sauce. Spoon ¼ cup filling over each tortilla and roll up. Arrange enchiladas, seam side down, in a 13- by 9-inch baking pan. Cover with remaining sauce. Cover with foil and bake in preheated 350-degree oven 15 minutes. Remove foil, sprinkle with cheese and bake an additional 3 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

SEASONINGS Make foods exciting

Mexican food is rich and exciting to the palate not only because it is seasoned subtly, but because of the special way it is prepared. To help you master the art of Mexican cookery, here is a glossary of Mexican foods and seasonings.

SEASONINGS

CAYENNE: Fruit of the pepper plant; orange-red to deep red in color; has a hot, pungent flavor; available as a dried and ground spice. Is added to hot, fiery dishes, such as chili con carne.

CHILIES: Members of the pepper family. There are a number of groups within the chili-pepper family; tabasco, jalapeno and cayenne are examples, and within each group there are hundreds of varieties with different shapes and degree of hotness. Mexicans toast them, peel them and soak them in milk or warm water until softened for cooking. The seeds frequently are toasted and ground too, and used for flavorings. Chilies lose their flavor quickly; even dried chilies must be stored tightly covered in a cool, dry place.

CHILI POWDER: Blend of spices (cumin, oregano, ground chili peppers, red pepper and garlic) with an earthy and slightly sweet flavor; intended to dominate food rather than enhance; major ingredient in chili con carne, tamales and enchiladas.

CLOVES: Dried unopened bud of evergreen tree of myrtle family; reddish brown in color; flavor is penetrating, sweet and pungent; available whole and ground. Used to flavor meat soups and gravies; taco fillings, beans, fruit, desserts and hot beverages.

CORIANDEr: Dried fruit or seed of plant belonging to parsley family; has slight lemon flavor; added to rice and meat dishes, roasted pork, biscuits and assorted pastries and guacamole.

CUMIN: Yellowish brown, strongly aromatic spice used in chili and similar dishes to add a hot taste. Is available whole and ground; used commercially as a principle ingredient in both chili powder and curry powder; has an earthy and strong flavor; used in cheese and cheese dishes, rice, chili con carne, tamales, tamale pie, tomato sauce and dried beans a la king.

OREGANO: Its flavoring is strong and aromatic with a pleasant bitter undertone; an essential ingredient in chili powder; goes well with tomatoes and is a natural seasoning with any tomato dish; used to season chili con carne, tamales, enchiladas and tortillas.

SAFFRON: Is the most expensive spice in the world, requires 75,000 blossoms or 225,000 stigmas of the saffron crocus to make one pound. It's orange-yellow in color; used for color as well as flavor; has a pleasantly bitter taste. An essential ingredient in arroz con pollo, paella and other rice dishes. Also used in seafood.

SESAME SEED: The dried, hulled fruit of a tropical annual herb; creamy white, smooth and slippery oval-shaped seed; rich nut-like flavor which resembles that of toasted almonds. Used as a garnish for vegetables and certain poultry dishes, such as Mole Poblano (turkey in chocolate and chili sauce); also baked on bread, rolls and buns.

Other seasonings commonly used in Mexican cooking include anise seed, basil, cinnamon, ginger, onion and paprika.

MEXICAN DISHES

ARROZ CON POLLO: Sauteed chicken cooked with Mexican rice (long-grained rice cooked with tomatoes, onions and chicken broth).

ATOLE: Milk thickened with masa harina (corn flour), sweetened with brown sugar or honey and flavored with crushed fruits or cinnamon and vanilla.

BUNUELO: Dessert fritter. Rich pastry dough rolled out like a tortilla, deep fat fried until puffed and lightly browned. Then drained, sprinkled with cinnamon sugar and served with caramel sauce.

BURRITO: Soft wheat-flour tortilla rolled around a filling to form an envelope and baked until heated through.

CHILIES RELLENOS: Jalapeno peppers stuffed with a meat or cheese filling and fried in a puffy egg batter.

CHILE CON QUESO: Chilies with cheese. Hot Cheddar cheese and jalapeno peppers dip, served as a vegetable with broiled meats and as an appetizer with hot tortillas.

CHILAQUILES: A casserole of tortillas in chili sauce. Usually prepared to use up leftover tortillas.

CHORIZOS: A spicy pork sausage. Used in fillings for quesadillas or other stuffed tortilla dishes.

EMPANADA: Baked or fried crescent-shaped turnover made of corn flour dough. Usually filled with chopped meat, raisins, olives and onions. Served as an appetizer; another way to use up leftover tortillas.

ENCHILADA: Soft corn tortilla, dipped into a chili sauce, rolled around a meat, cheese or poultry filling, and baked in additional sauce.

FLAN: Baked caramelized custard. The custard mixture is poured into a mold coated with caramel syrup, placed in a pan of hot water, then baked. The syrup forms a sweet coating over the entire flan. This dish is the standard dessert for all of Latin America.

FRIJOLES REFritos: Well-fried beans (the common name, refried beans, is a misnomer). Black, pinto or pink beans are fried until almost dry; the bean mixture resembles a coarse puree. This dish is served hot, with garnishes of cheese and crisp triangles of tortillas.

Restaurant Review

by Lee Smith, ANP's Roving Connoisseur

...Prince and Pauper

By LEE SMITH

The Prince and the Pauper, Wayne's popular dining spot on the "south side", is about to introduce itself to the "north side" when it takes over Palombo's in the West 8-Mile area.

Joe and Betty Cesarz, the restaurant's owner-hosts, hope to be into their second establishment in the next few months. Not about to change a successful label, they plan to rename the newcomer "Prince and the Pauper - North."

Garden City residents, the Cesarzs challenged the food business nearly four years ago when they purchased the eatery then known as Mancotti's at 4915 S. Wayne Road, between Michigan Avenue and Van Born Road. The couple completely revamped the interior, taking out walls which formed several small dining rooms, adding paneling and pseudo Tiffany lamps.

Then with the know-how of Chef Albert Heyza, whom they adopted (hired) from the previous owners, Joe and Betty also reconstructed the house menu.

Dinner, featured from 5 p.m. to 12 midnight, now lists a full selection of seafood and beef entrees; Prince and Pauper Spaghetti being the only variant on the bill of fare. At $3.95 and at the bottom of the price scale, it vies for honors with the top of the line, a Seafood Platter for Two at $12.95 — a cache of Danish lobster tails, frog legs, crab, deep fried shrimp and breaded perch. Having it solo is $6.95.

Luncheon patrons can opt for the $2.25 diet plate or 13 other dishes priced on up the ladder to the $7.95 King-size New York Sirloin which includes tossed green salad, spaghetti or potato, bread and butter.

Seven sandwiches, a trio of salad bowls and several appetizers are offered along with a soup of the day which is always homemade and hearty.

We had no problem ordering last Thursday night since Bert was sold after hearing Betty extol Chef Heyza's prime rib. My entree came from the surf side of the menu.

An excellent frothy Apricot Brandy Sour and Manhattan preceded our soup course. Mine, split pea, was thick with ham pieces and chunks of carrot. Bert's, the house specialty, was French Onion which he chose au gratin style — capped with a layer of melted cheese.

Oval plates held our generous salads of lettuce mixed with tomato and garbanzo beans with several black olives for accent.

Prime rib is listed as "recommended by Bill Ocholik" — a name Belleville-Sumpter area folks will easily recognize as a native son and one familiar to Mrs. C. — the former Betty Ocholik. Bert requested and got an end-cut which looked like a small roast! He chose baked potato while I went with meat and mushroom sauced spaghetti as accompaniment to my whole trout. Bored before being centered on a bed of leafy lettuce, the broiled fresh frozen fish was meaty and moist, tender and flakey. A miniature loaf of hot crusty bread replaced a basket of garlic toast and bread sticks we'd munched on earlier.

The addition of a nice hefty chunk of butter saved our waitress, Mary, a few extra footsteps. A real addict for the yellow stuff, I usually have to request more when it comes barely visible on little squares of paper.

On Friday and Saturday nights, patrons are entertained by The Act 3 — a trio which plays the sounds of the 50's. Subdued lighting along with red hurricane candles set the mood for cocktails, dinner and dancing.

The Cesarzs employ a staff of 25 in all to see to the needs of their guests. Although there are no banquet facilities, Prince and Pauper has a seating capacity of 144 and can comfortably accommodate parties of 30. Naturally, they ask that you please reserve space. Ask for the hostess when you call 728-1783. And — enjoy!

The works of 20 photographers from across the country, representing a cross-section of interests and explorations within the contemporary photographic community, will hand in the Cranbrook Academy of Art Museum Tuesday through April 3.

The museum is located at 500 Lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills.

"A Survey of Contemporary Photography" contains 300 photographs collected from New York galleries by the academy's photography department head Carl Toth. It will be open to the public from 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays.

Toth, in choosing what he felt was a meaningful collection of photographs and works that he, as a professional photographer-artist, appreciates, included the works of well-known as well as young and relatively unknown photographers.

Works in the show range from photo-realism to mysticism.

Duane Michals of New York City, for example, uses one theme—mysteries, memories and psychic experiences.

"I believe in the imagination," Michals said. "What I cannot see is infinitely more important than what I can see."

His photographs, whether single images of laundromats or metaphoric sequences of disappearance and death, are charged with a quality of otherness—as if transcending the reality of both the picture and the objects it depicts, Toth said.

Mixing fiction and reality is the specialty of Les Krims of Buffalo, N. Y. To represent motherhood, for example, Krims shows a middle-class living room, complete with pictures on the wall, a rack under the television full of magazines, furniture and lampshades wrapped in clear plastic. In the midst of the scene, however, is an overweight, middle-aged, nude woman. This is not incongruous, but completely contradictory, shattering the illusion that mother in general—and fat, middle-aged, middle class mothers in particular—are never nude, Toth said.

Other photographs—a mother pouring milk out of a chicken, wreaking fiery havoc in a G.I. Joe doll or holding a bunch of carrots between her breasts—further generate confirmation between fiction and reality, he added.

A third example of work included in the Cranbrook exhibition are Garry Winogrand's photographs, in which nothing is irrelevant. Like amateur photographers, Winogrand captures everyday events and people on film. His images are not realities carefully constructed by the photographer but rather are simple descriptions of events that he finds revealing of the characters, be they cheerleaders or a young black girl clutching a fashion magazine emblazoned with a picture of a blond white girl, Toth said.

Among the best known photographers represented in the show are Robert Heinecken, professor of art at University of California — Los Angeles; Robert Adams of Longmont, Colo., an independent photographer who has photographs in the collections of the Museum of Modern Art and Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City and the International Museum of Photography at George Eastman House, Rochester, N. Y., and Ralph Gibson of New York City, who has published several fine art photographic books and who has had exhibitions in museums and galleries around the world.

Among the younger photographers are Michael Bishop and Eric Renner of New York, Mark Cohen of Pennsylvania, and Linda Connor of California.

CB mania influences creative dance show

The current CB radio mania not only has influenced the lives of businessmen and other travelers, but has caught the imagination of creative artists at Eastern Michigan University (EMU).

Sarah Martens of the dance faculty has created a new work, entitled "The CB Honk," which will be presented along with other pieces tomorrow through Saturday in Quirk Theatre on the EMU campus. The arts always have reflected and recorded man's experiences, and Martens' piece also explores 'today's world' of CB radios and the people who use them on the nation's highways. She has written a script in CB language to further enhance the environment created by the dancers.

The concert features all original works with thematic materials chosen by the choreographers which reflect the humorous, as well as the serious contemplations of man. Catharine Taylor Plavcan, a new faculty member from the California Institute of the Arts, will present three works, including "Windcasting," based on images and thoughts of desert mountains, "Watching Walnut Street," based on the remembrance of friends, people and a place, and "Activity Dance 3, 4 Pulse 6, 7, 8," a farcical piece about some aspects of time.

Faculty member Linda Hemmelgarn has reconstructed "For What It's Worth," which she choreographed originally in 1972 for the Butler University Ballet Company. It is in the jazz idiom and utilizes, as accompaniment, sections from Isaac Hayes' musical score from "Shaft" and will be performed by Ms. Hemmelgarn and Mimi Watson, a junior dance major.

Student works selected to be performed in the concert include "Wasono," a modern dance piece by Barry Sutcliffe, a senior from Wayne, and "All That Jazz," by Victoria Forton, a senior from Pontiac, and Lois Silverman, a junior from Southfield.

Also appearing in the productions will be Aileen Manikas, a freshman from Belleville, in "Watching Walnut Street"; Kathleen Berman, a sophomore from Wayne, in "Watching Walnut Street" and "Activity Dances"; Charles Darrell, a junior from Wayne, in "Windcasting" and "Activity Dances"; Barry Sutcliffe, a senior from Wayne, in "Wasono" and "Activity Dances"; and Tanya Bone, a junior from Westland, in "The CB Honk," "Activity Dances" and "All That Jazz".

Presented by the Dance Division of the department of health, physical education, recreation and dance, the concert is designed to provide an opportunity for students of dance to objectify knowledge acquired in the studio and lecture hall, to perform in faculty works of a higher choreographic level and to contribute to the campus and community cultural resources.

Performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. tomorrow through Saturday with a matinee performance at 2 p.m. Saturday. Admission to the evening performances is $2 while tickets for the matinee performance are $1.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12. Tickets may be purchased in the Warner Gymnasium lobby through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. or at the Quirk box office prior to performances.

As a sidelight to the concert, a slide exhibit of "Artists Who Chose Dance as their Subject" and "EMU Dancers in Action" will be on display in the lobby of the University Library Monday through Saturday.

For further information about the concert, call 487-1211.

'Moby Dick' readies For March 2 opening

The Orson Welles adaptation of the American literary classic "Moby Dick" will officially join the Hilberry Theatre repertory at 8:30 p.m. March 2.

The Welles play, "Moby Dick-Rehearsed", recreates the epic pursuit of an albino whale by a 19th century whaling vessel.

Based on the novel by Herman Melville, this stage adaptation was praised for its ingenious structure when first presented on Broadway in 1962. Utilizing the play within a play technique, Welles set his story in an American theatre at the end of the 19th century. Historically, this was about the time Melville died and before "Moby Dick" had achieved its recognition as a classic.

The acting company gathers to rehearse its "new piece"—an adaptation of the Melville novel. With the aid of props, lighting and sound effects they soon are creating the illusion of the ship at sea and Melville's adventure story beings.

D. H. Lawrence called the novel, published in 1851, "the greatest book of the sea ever written". W. Somerset Maugham rated it among the world's greatest novels.

Heading the cast of "Moby Dick-Rehearsed" is Andrew Leo Dunn. He plays the pivotal roles of the actor manager, Captain Ahab and Father Mapple. Ishmael is played by Douglas McBride, the first mate Starbuck by Michael Rothhaar and Pip by Suzanne Leslie Stark.

The production is directed by N.

Joseph Calarco, with set design by Steven Sarratore, costumes by Daniel Thomas Field and lighting by Benjamin F. Levenberg.

"Moby Dick-Rehearsed" runs in repertory through May with "The Lion in Winter," "The Three Sisters," "Othello," and "You Never Can Tell." For more information or reservations contact the Wayne State University Theatre Box Office, Hilberry Theatre at Cass and Hancock in Detroit 48202. For telephone reservations, call 577-2972. Discounts are available and additional outlets for student-rate tickets are the Wayne State University Book Store, the Highland Park College Book Store, and the Oakland University Ticket Service.

River View

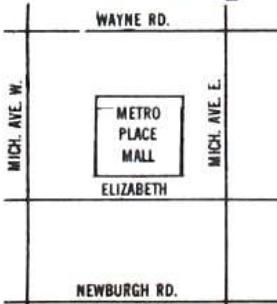

Students at Schoolcraft College are putting the finishing touches on their upcoming weekend presentation of "6 Rms; Riv Vu". The students, under the direction of Bob Gregory, will be staging the comedy at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 25-27 and March 4-6. Appearing in the play will be John Baird (top photo, from left) as Eddie the supervisor, Kim DeLoche as Anne and Lance Arp as Paul. Also taking roles in the production will be Shawn O'Neal (bottom photo, left) as the husband and Tracy Rowens as the peasant lady. The play deals with the delightful happenings of two married (not to each other) couples and refugees of the 1950s who are accidentally locked up in a New York rent-controlled, 6-room apartment. The comedy will be presented in the Liberal Arts Theater. Tickets cost $1.25 and are available at the campus bookstore or at the door. For further information call 591-6400. — ANP photos.

'Show-Off' will join playbill

Artistic Director Terence Kilburn has announced that George Kelly's classic American comedy, "The Show-Off", will open a 4-week run at the Meadow Brook Theatre at 8:30 p.m. March 24.

The rights to present "The Guardsman", originally scheduled for this Meadow Brook season, have been withdrawn due to a forthcoming Broadway production and a possible National Tour.

"The Show-Off" has enjoyed four successful New York revivals since its debut in 1924. In praising the 1967 Broadway production, Clive Barnes of the New York Times wrote: "This is unquestionably the best American play seen on Broadway for some seasons. 'The Show-Off' survives magnificently, partly because it is a good, well-written play."

After its run at the Meadow Brook Theatre, "The Show-Off" will tour various communities throughout Michigan.

Area wrestlers finish 1-2-3 at district

Wayne edges Belleville for championship

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

For the first time in recent high school wrestling history, area teams made a "clean sweep" of a Class A District wrestledown.

Led by Wayne Memorial, the defending champ, Belleville and Westland John Glenn completed a 1-2-3 finish at the district staged Saturday at Ypsilanti High School.

Wayne successfully defended its district title, earning a narrow one-point, 54½ to 53½ victory over the second place Belleville contingent. John Glenn finished third with 45½ points.

The area also qualified 29 wrestlers for Saturday's regional tournament which will be held at Ann Arbor Huron.

"I was very pleased with the way we wrestled," said Wayne Coach Don Haney. "We wrestled well, the best we have all year."

Wayne qualified nine of its 10 for the regional while Belleville advanced seven as did Glenn. Plymouth Salem will be represented by three and Canton by one at the regionals. Romulus will send two to the regional.

Haney forecasts "a donneybrook" at the regionals.

"It's going to be tough, no doubt about it," Haney said. "Bedford and Adrian, the 1-2 powers in the state, look like the teams to beat."

"Bedford qualified 11 out of its district and we're definitely going to need some help from others who must knock off Bedford people."

"However, if we wrestle as well as we did at the districts, it's anyone's ball game."

Surviving the district wrestledowns from Wayne are: Andy McEachern (108), Bo Wanshon (122), Randy Pittman (129), Tim Clark (135), Corry Bachus (141), Chris Bachus (148), Chris Leverenz (168), Ed Leverenz (181) and heavyweight Kevin Wilson.

Belleville retains Western Wayne swim title

Cherry Hill finishes a close 2nd place

Though they didn't win an event, Belleville proved it is the best team in the area for 1976-77 season as Coach Sam Vicchy's Tigers successfully defended their Western Wayne Aquatics Championship.

The champs managed to turn back Cherry Hill, its closest challenger by 12 points to emerge atop of a 12-team field that had assembled for the 15th running of the invitational at Westland John Glenn.

The swimmers shattered four records, one of those in the opening 200-yard medley relay which saw Cherry Hill's foursome of Craig Lillie, Mark Cotter, Rick Kogelschatz and Dave Koslosky combined for a 1:44.64, bettering their own mark of a year ago (1:46.40).

Kogelschatz went on to win two other events, claiming the 100-yard butterfly in 53.44. Earlier, Rick covered the 50-yard freestyle in 22.95 for another first place.

There were two other double winners: Plymouth Canton's Ken Harris and Livonia Franklin's Steve Christie.

Christie set the pace for the 200-yard individual medley and was clocked in a record-shattering 2:06.32. He broke former Livonia Churchill swimmer, Ken Dove's time of 2:08.02 set in 1974.

Christie also established a new high for the 500-yard freestyle, beating previous record-holder, Belleville's Howard Renton, to the wire.

Christie's impressive time for the 500 was a 4:19.50, while Renton was runner-up as he pulled in at 5:01.70.

Harris was less than one-tenth of a second off the record for the 200-yard freestyle as he touched in first with a 1:51.10, again nipping Renton at the wire. Renton carded a 1:51.35.

In the 100-yard freestyle, Harris coasted to an easy victory (49.84) which also removed Dove's record of 49.97 from the boards.

"We're always happy to win this meet," Vicchy said. "As the times have indicated the competition is getting better and better and from now on it's anyone's guess which of the area teams will win it."

Pawloski said he felt his swimmers swam well, "but Belleville just has a little too much depth for us."

Belleville's domination of the diving boards came to an end as Westland John Glenn's senior diver, Chris Freeborn, amassed 398.85 points to walk off with the coveted gold medal.

Freeborn was locked in a duel with Plymouth Canton's Scott Wales who was breathing down the Glenn diver's neck all the way. Wales settled for the second place medal as he compiled 395.60 points.

Long deserved more

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Johnny Long deserved more from the fans, the Romulus city officials and the Romulus board of education.

So did Ron Bostick, the muscular 6-9 cager.

Long showed up Friday night at the high school for what was to be "his night" and there were no school officials, or city administration representatives and only a mere handful of fans on hand to greet him.

And it wasn't because Long or Bostick, who have helped the University of Detroit win 20 consecutive basketball games and were members of Romulus High's cage teams that won over 70 games, were "unknowns."

"It's a pity," said one of the fans. "Here is a player who had fans standing in the doorways to see him play, led the school to a 72-19 won-lost record during the four years he was here, and he gets this kind of reception."

"He and his teammate deserved better," the fan added.

Long brushed aside the poor reception with a "Hey, I'm glad I could come back. These people have been good to me."

Long, a 6-5 forward for Coach Dick Vitale's Titans at U-D, has scored in double figures 53 consecutive games. He is presently averaging more than 20 points per game and is considered a serious All-American candidate.

If he should find himself in an All-American lineup, Long would become the first player in Romulus basketball history to be so honored. (Romulus is also the home of Shaler Halimon, the first area cage star to break into the ranks of professional basketball. However, Shaler never earned All-American consideration.)

Long is "Mr. Basketball of Romulus."

He teamed with Bostick, James Hall and Michael Morrison to give the Eagles three consecutive district championships during 1972-74, an era of basketball that fans, we felt, would never forget.

But, as he stood there with head football coach Tom Baldwin — who introduced Long and Bostick to the fans — Long must have wondered what happened to basketball at his "old school."

After the brief presentation which ended with both Long and Bostick receiving plaques, the two former prep cage stars remained in the stands and watched the Eagles destroy a visiting Detroit Northwestern team 67-54.

Where were the fans?

"It has been like this all year," Coach Jesse Meriweather said. (He wasn't able to attend the halftime presentation ceremonies because he was with his team in the locker-room.) "I feel Long deserved more than he received from our fans. It's too bad, but that happens sometimes."

People who know him say that Long isn't the introverted individual he was when he attended high school.

"Long's personality has changed considerably," a fan who follows U-D's cage team remarked. "He was an introvert in high school and you just can't be that way around Vitale."

"Dick has brought Long out of his shell," he added.

It's too bad we can't find someone to accomplish the same with Romulus' fans.

If there isn't a radical change of events, it appears that the all-Northwest Suburban Conference Trophy will be heading back to Westland John Glenn this year.

It is presently locked up in Livonia Franklin's display case.

"We're enjoying an excellent year," said Don Domke, Glenn's athletic director. "So far the league has completed seven championships and we've won four of them, including the football, girls tennis, wrestling and we've tied with Garden City East in cross country."

Domke, as executive secretary, recently helped organize the Michigan Directors of physical education Mid-West Conference. The conference was held at Dearborn's Hyatt Regency Hotel.

"We had members from the mid-west come here to discuss mutual problems and one of those problems is finding enough money to keep programs going."

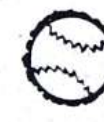

Domke also has the headache of organizing the 22-team regional volleyball tournament which will be hosted by John Glenn on March 12. Glenn is the defending champ.

"Despite the money woes," Domke added, "there are more kids involved in athletics and sports than ever."

And that's the way it should be, Don.

Cherry Hill '5' nears title

Spartans are victory away from championship

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

If Coach Dick McNally and Cherry Hill's basketball team want a niche in the high school's history they can do so by beating Crestwood.

Crestwood blocks the Spartans' path to their first Tri-River Conference basketball championship and a victory over the Dearborn Heights cagers Tuesday night would give the Inkster-based high school at least a share of the title.

"We're expecting a tough battle over there," said McNally whose team carved out a 89-67 victory over an improved Garden City West team Friday night. "If we can beat them (Crestwood), that would give us a 11-1 record with two games remaining.

"That would also leave Crestwood with a 9-3 record and the worst we could do would be to finish in a two-way tie for the championship," McNally pointed out. Cherry Hill plays Southgate and Schafer for its final two games of the season.

Crestwood was scheduled to host Tuesday night's return match. For the fourth time this season Cherry Hill had five of its starters in double scoring figures and it was enough to stop West for the second time this year.

With Jim Steudle and Floyd Simmons collecting 17 and 19 points respectively, the Spartans boosted their over-all record to 13-4 on the season.

Cherry Hill also received 12 points from Keith Steward while Mark

Lipinski and Dennis Gunn each accounted for 10 points.

West, the disposed defending champ, kept pace with the Spartans in the first period but fell behind 20-16 at the end of the period. Cherry Hill couldn't shake the stubborn Tigers in the next eight minutes and held a slim 38-32 halftime advantage.

The Spartans came up with the knock-out punch in the third period when they outscored their rivals 24-13, giving McNally an opportunity to release his bench.

Thirteen Cherry Hill players got into the scoring column.

Gerald Tatrow paced West's attack with 14 points and Boston added 11. West made 23 of 29 at the free throw line as compared to Cherry Hill's 19 of 26.

Romulus humbles Northwestern

"It was 'Johnny Long Night' Friday night at Romulus and the Eagles celebrated with an impressive 67-54 victory over Detroit Northwestern.

Long, former Romulus all-stater who is presently the leading scorer on the University of Detroit basketball team, was on hand along with teammate Ron Bostick to receive plaques commemorating his achievements as a former pre-star.

"Our players knew that long was going to be here and I think they played their hearts out for him," said Jesse Meriweather, Romulus head coach. "It was nice to win the way we did."

The victory snapped Northwestern's domination over Romulus cage teams. It was the first time in the school's history that the Eagles had ever beaten Northwestern in basketball.

It took a strong zone defense and a balanced scoring attack led by guards Al Lewis, Wendell Buckley and center Darnell Morris for the Eagles to put down the taller Detroit quintet.

"I knew we couldn't match up with them man-to-man," Meriweather pointed out. "So we decided to play zone. This is the first time we have done that."

"Northwestern isn't accustomed of seeing a zone and it probably caught them off guard," Meriweather added.

The slow-starting Eagle trailed early in the ball game 8-2 but a couple of baskets by Morris and a pair of free throws by Buckley got the hosts moving.

Buckley's two free throws tied the game at 12-all and Morris' two charities moved them out ahead 14-12. Lewis' last shot at the buzzer fell, giving the Eagle a 16-12 lead at the end of the first period.

Northwestern couldn't match Romulus' over-all speed and Lewis' "hot hand" in the second period. Hitting on three field goals, the senior Romulus guard staked his team to a 33-24 halftime advantage which the Eagles protected the rest of the way.

Romulus held off the Colts 44-36 for three periods, then outscored them 23-18 in the last eight minutes of the game.

Lewis finished the night with 22 points, the game's high. Buckley and Morris, who pulled down 16 rebounds, chipped in 15 points each, while Louis Matthews added nine.

Donald Mellon topped Northwestern's scorers with 16 and Bernie Fellow, with 14, was the only other player in double figures.

The victory was Romulus' sixth in 14 starts and they'll be seeking their seventh triumph Friday night at home when Willow Run invades the Eagles' gym. The Flyers will be out to avenge an earlier 69-59 loss to Romulus.

Can Belleville '5' mar perfect Salem record

For the past three years Coach Tom Niemi has made sure that Plymouth Salem has had at least one Suburban 8 Conference basketball loss on its record.

And Niemi feels his Belleville Tigers could do it again to the undefeated defending league champs who sewed up their third consecutive conference championship last week at Livonia Bentley.

Belleville lost to the Rocks in the first round and the rematch will be on the Tiger court.

"The first game we played against them I felt we played well enough to win," Niemi said. "They beat us at the free throw line. Of course, they have already clinched the title this year but Friday night's game involves a lot of pride."

"Our team wants to prove that it can beat them," Niemi added.

Belleville is the only team in the league that has managed to split with Salem.

The Tigers brushed up for the rematch with a surprisingly easy victory over Edsel Ford. The T-Birds succumbed to the visiting Belleville quintet 78-47.

Ahead 18-12 after the first period, Belleville widened the margin to 38-28 at halftime, then gunned down their league rivals with an 18-6 third and a 22-15 fourth period.

"I feel that every game we have thus far played we have improved some aspect of our game," Niemi offered.

The victory boosted Belleville league record to 6-4 on the year.

Sophomore Kelvin Patterson, who collected 19 of his game high 24 points in the first half and nailed down 13 rebounds, paced the Tigers. Teammate Cornell Grantham turned in his finest over-all performance of the season, adding 20 points.

Edsel received 11 points from Kevin Byrne.

Belleville was overpowering on the boards against the T-Birds who had the height but not the position under the boards to stop the Tigers. Belleville outrebounded their host 60-20.

"It's almost unbelievable that we had that much of an edge," Niemi pointed out, "but that's what our charts show. We're going to need something like that this week."

Belleville also managed to avenge an earlier loss to Redford Union. The Tigers emerged on top of a 70-65 count that featured some rugged, physical play around the boards.

Though they never trailed, the Tigers couldn't shake off the Panthers who pulled within two points (33-31) at halftime after Belleville went out in front 15-10 at the end of the first half after Belleville went out in front 15-10 at the end of the first period.

Patterson again sparked the Tigers as he fired in eight points in the third period and transfer student Marion Smith hauled down 11 rebounds and contributed six points in that quarter as the Tigers moved to a 53-43 lead for three periods.

Redford Union didn't give up. Fouling to get possession of the ball, R.U. came within three of making up the difference. It was the free throw line that saved the Tigers who hit on nine of 10 charities in the last period to ice it.

Belleville also made 27 of 60 from the field — 45 percent, while Redford Union sank 28 of 65 for 43 percent. The Tigers, enjoying one of their better nights at the line, capitalized on 16 of 20 free throws while R.U. cashed in on 9 of 14.

Patterson topped all scorers with 26 and Grantham added 14 and Smith contributed 12.

Mike Petsch and Bill Barnes split 32 points between them for the losers.

Renegades capture midget title

After getting off to a slow hockey start this season, the Romulus Renegades reeled off consecutive wins to take the league championship. The deciding game came last Thursday as the Renegades blanked Flat Rock 3-0 to clinch the title.

It was the first league title for Romulus in its short three year history of midget hockey 15-16 year old boys.

The midgets were paced this year by league leading scorers Greg Green and Leon Kour, completed by strong defensive play of Jim and Dave Helmuth and Brian Sedlacek. The team was also backed league leading goalie Dan Cutcher with five shutouts to his record.

After being voted out of Dist. II playdowns in favor of the Brownstown Icemen by the Ice Box League board, the fired up Renegades defeated Brownstown, Woodhaven, and Flat Rock 3-1, 3-0, and 3-0 respectively.

The Romulus midgets finished the regular season last Monday night with a 3-0 whitewash over Woodhaven.

Injuries continue to haunt Franklin

If Livonia Franklin head basketball coach Bob Visser receives a letter from the insurance company informing him that it intends to drop coverage for his cage team he shouldn't be surprised. The injury-prone Patriots lost yet another starter to an ankle injury last Friday. This time it was center Pat Golem who banged up the ankle during warm-up against Rochester Adams.

Golem was sidelined for the rest of the evening that ended in a 69-64 nonleague setback for the Patriots. Golem is on the "doubtful list" for Friday's key Northwest Suburban game with John Glenn, according to Visser.

"I don't know if he (Golem) will be ready to play," Visser said. "I don't think it was a bad sprain but Pat just couldn't play on in last Friday. We may tape it up for the Glenn game."

Golem's injury, coupled with a cold-shooting first period, spelled disaster for the Livonians at Rochester. They scored only six points during the first eight minutes and trailed the rest of the evening.

Adams turned a 15-6 first period lead to a 33-26 halftime advantage, then stayed ahead 56-38 for three periods before Franklin made their comeback bid.

Down by as much as 18 points, the Patriots received eight points from Dennis Smith and six from Dave Wilson to come within one point of tying the game up.

With 20 seconds left in the game, Adams had the ball out of bounds on the baseline and managed a downcourt pass which resulted in a basket.

That sealed the victory for Adams. "Our kids gave it a good try after being down by so much," Visser said. "Without Golem, who's 6-4, Adams was playing volleyball under the boards. We just couldn't stop them."

Jeff Phillips, who sank 18 points, led the Patriots. Franklin had two others in double figures. Wilson collected 14, sinking 10-of-10 at the free throw line which tied a school record. Dennis Smith also had 14.

The Livonians, who made only two of 14 attempted shots from the field in the first period, finished the game with 20 of 53. They picked up 24 (of 30) points from the free throw line. The loss left Franklin with a 5-11 won-lost record.

Earlier in the week the Patriots also dropped a 53-52 overtime decision to Northville. Tony Armada's lay-up in the final second was the difference in the game.

"This is one game which we felt we had locked up and let it get away from us," Visser pointed out. "It was our fault. We got careless."

The two teams exchanged leads the first two periods. Franklin had a 14-13 edge after eight minutes but Northville took command at halftime 26-23. The game was tied at 37-all for three periods and 47-all at the end of regulation play.

Phillips played one of his best games of the season as he drilled in 10 field goals for 20 points. Smith also was in two figures with 14 while John Zannis counted 13.

Armada, aside from the decisive basket, also scored seven from the field and two of three free throws for 18 points.

Hunter's safety clinic set

The final "Hunter's Safety Clinic" will be staged the weekend of Feb. 19-20 at the Point Moula, south Rockwood, Jefferson and Huron River Drive.

Registration for the clinic, sponsored by the Department of Natural Resources, will begin at 9:30 p.m. Participants must be 11-years-old and up.

The clinic will be instructed by Burton Girardin, chief instructor for the DNR. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 379-4411.

Leist (115) and Dave Champion (194) will wear Salem's colors at the regionals while Canton's lone representative is Scott Collins (148). The Ann Arbor Huron regional will begin at noon on Saturday with the preliminaries, and the finals are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Huron is located at 2727 Fuller Rd. and Huron Parkway, one mile west of U.S. 23 and Geddes Rd.

Admission for students is $1 and adults $1.50 and the gym will be cleared following the afternoon session.

Gerald Malecek, Belleville High

coach, is looking forward to the regional test.

"I'm hoping we can squeeze four of the seven through to the state finals," he said. "Going into the district tournament I didn't think we stood a chance to win because Wayne and Glenn were ranked among the top 10 powers in the state."

"However, as it turned out, if we had not left three of our starters home because of injuries, we could have finished on top. I'm extremely proud of our guys. They wrestled well and really poured it on in the second round where six of the seven won by falls."

Shrine to host softball clinic

Shrine High School will host the 1977 Super Softball Clinic on March 5th, a Saturday, in the High School Gymnasium from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. One of the most prolific performers in the sports world, Joan Joyce will serve as the Clinic's chief instructor. The name Joan Joyce has become almost synonymous with women's softball.

As a pitcher with the Raybestos Brakettes, Joan compiled a phenomenal 429 wins to only 33 losses. Among her victories are 105 no-hitters and 33 perfect games. Joan struck out 5,677 batters in 3,397 innings.

A true Superstar in every sense of the word, Joan this past season pitched her Connecticut Falcons, of the newly Women's Professional Softball League, to a World Championship while posting a 42-2 pitching record.

The legendary Joan Joyce, known as the "Babe Ruth" of women's softball once struck out baseball great Ted Williams 3 times in an exhibition performance.

Brenda Reilly, first base coach of the Connecticut Falcons will also serve as a clinic instructor. Brenda was a star infielder for 13 seasons with the Raybestos Brakettes, where she played on four National Championship Teams. She also played in the 1964 International Softball Tournament in Sydney, Australia.

Wyandotte edges Wayne cagers, 48-47

You can't blame Coach Bill Hawley for wondering what he has to do to win one in the Great Lakes 8 Conference.

Despite what Hawley called "his team's best ball game of the season," Wayne bowed to second place Wyandotte 48-47 Friday night.

With three seconds remaining in the game, Wayne had a one-and-one and failed to make the free throws that would have given it the ball game.

"We had our chances," Hawley said. "And didn't do it. But I can't fault my players — they played their best game of the season and we lost it."

Bill Crews, who accounted for more than half of Wayne's points, led a fourth period rally that fell short. He hit on four of four shots from the field in the second period to help the Zebras pull away from a 11-10 lead to a 29-19 halftime margin. He finished with 24 points.

Single handledly, Crews accounted for 10 of his team's 12 points in the third period which kept the Zebras out in front by 10 after three periods, 41-31.

Wyandotte cashed in on a Wayne cold streak in the last eight minutes — the Zebras made three of 12 during the last quarter — to cut away at the lead, then took over with 22 seconds remaining.

With three seconds left, Wayne's Mike Plungis managed to steal the ball from the Bruins and was fouled. Wyandotte immediately called time out and when play resumed Plungis failed to get the point that would have tied the game.

Plungis, a 6-2 senior, was the key to Wayne's defense as he held Wyandotte's 6-6 center Ed Kurylo to two points. He also nailed down six rebounds.

Wayne is now 4-6 on the league year, good for fifth place. They're scheduled to meet Riverview at home Thursday night and will play Dearborn Fordson on Wed., Feb. 23 in a make-up game.

Tim Couch continued his fantastic shooting at the free throw line. He picked up two more free throws to extend his consecutive streak to 34 in a row. It is the longest in the league's history. Tim finished with eight points against the Bruins.

Ypsilanti pounded Wayne 78-52 in a nonleague game earlier in the week. Ypsilanti raced from a 14-7 first period lead to a 43-29 advantage at halftime, then outscored their hosts 15-12 and 20-12 for the last two periods.

The Braves also dominated the boards 55-37.

Mike Singleton's 14 points paced Wayne while Crews and Pat Bledsoe added 13 and 10 points respectively. However, Scott Davis racked up 25 points for Ypsi, the game's high.

PAT SHERIDAN

was also a member of the League's Executive Board. Bud is an ex-Mayor League Baseball scout. Jane Blalock, one of the most respected names in Women's Professional Golf will honor the clinic as its guest speaker.

Blalock, recently won the Colgate L.P.G.A. Triple Crown Golf Tournament in Palm Springs, California.

Collectively this line-up of talent for the Shrine High School Super Softball Clinic should insure each participant a most rewarding clinic. There will also be other professional softball players instructing in the clinic.

There will be door prizes and refreshments served. For clinic tickets and reservations, coaches and players should contact Clinic Coordinator, Linda Mueller at Royal Oak Shrine High School.

Tickets for the clinic are $12 in advance and $15 at the door.

EMU names scholar-athletes

The Eastern Michigan men's varsity athletes proved themselves in the classroom as well as on the playing field during the fall semester.

A total of 56 varsity athletes, including two former Wayne Memorial stars, achieved semester or cumulative grade averages of 3.0 (B) or better during the fall of 1976.

Two of coach Ed Chlebik's football players received mention on the Mid-American Conference all-academic team. One of those was junior Al Slamer, a former All-Area griddier from Wayne and senior Ron Slater.

Slamer's former teammate Pat Sheridan also earned high scholastic honors. Sheridan is a member of the Huron baseball squad.

Slamer's former teammate Pat Sheridan also earned high scholastic honors. Sheridan is a member of the Huron baseball squad.

Belleville's Mikeal Yonge, who lettered in track, was among the scholar athletes named in this week's list.

The scholar athletes list for women's varsity teams will be announced next week, EMU officials said.

Engines often get blamed for not starting up fast enough, although the fault may be the driver's. Older-model cars and many imports and sports cars have manually controlled chokes. But most current American cars have automatic chokes and require strict starting procedures which many drivers ignore. Check your owner's manual. Most owner's manuals outline different starting procedures for different conditions, such as when the engine is hot, or when it is cold. You can save yourself annoyance, by always starting the car exactly as your owner's manual recommends.

Quality parts and accessories for both foreign and domestic cars are the specialty at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster! We carry everything you need to keep your car running at its best. Stop in and check our complete line of automotive tools! Have your repair work done by expert machinists in our machine shop! We turn brake drums, grind valves, rebuild motors, etc. Call us at 563-3894. We are open 8 A.M. until 8 P.M. and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. Master Charge and Bank Americard are honored.

HANDY HINT: Low temperatures stiffen lubricants in the engine, making it harder to turn over.

113. Wanted: Real Estate

"Ask George" Question: In reading the real estate ads, when I read a house is priced under FHA appraisal, what does that mean?

Answer: The FHA has already sent a report of how much they feel the property is worth. Someone has paid for the appraisal - either the owner or a previous buyer on a deal that fell through.

While any appraisal is merely an opinion, it is likely to be an informed opinion, carefully arrived at by some one who knows how to judge values. And if the FHA has given an estimate of the home's value, you as a buyer would have some idea what mortgage amount the FHA would guarantee on it.

So if the owner is now willing to sell for less than the FHA appraised price, he is right to mention it in the ad. It should be attractive to buyers at the price.

If you talk to the seller of the house, you might ask whether the FHA also mentioned repairs that would be required to bring the house up to standards. And if you apply for an FHA mortgage, you will probably reimburse the person who spent the money for the appraisal. If more than six months have elapsed, a new one will be required anyway.

If you can buy a house under the price of the FHA appraisal already on it, you may have a good deal.

Send your real estate questions with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Ask George", Box No. 6, Wayne, MI. 48184.

NOTHING TO HIDE.

YOU CAN SEE CHATHAM MEATS ARE FRESH CUT ON BOTH SIDES

The top side may look okay, but what about the bottom? You're never in doubt when you buy meat at Chatham. Because Chatham is Detroit's only major supermarket chain with see-thru transparent meat trays that let you check both sides before you buy. Maybe that is one reason why Chatham sells more meat per store than any other major supermarket chain in town.

Beat The Brown Bag Blues

Plan lunches in advance, and vary menus. Rotate fruits and vegetables with pack 6- and 12-oz. cans of citrus juices with easy-open lids. It's an easy way for kids to get the Vitamin A and C that they need.

Pack foods that your family enjoys. Don't use lunch to experiment with new foods that might only get thrown away.

Set aside a section of the kitchen as the official lunch counter. Store all the staples needed to make lunch in the cupboards above. Below, keep everything you need to pack lunch, such as vacuum bottles, paper plates, cups, straws, napkins, etc. Keep lunch money handy.

Let your children help make their lunches. It's probably the best way to be sure that they like their lunch—and eat it.
